MINISTERS DISAGREE ON SERIOUSNESS OF CITY'S MORAL ILLS

Dean Atkinson, at Grand, and Dr. Chapman, Addressing Men Only, Express Widely Divergent Views

ONE INDORSES CONDITIONS; OTHER DEPLORES THEM

Loal Pastor and Evangelist Give Views on Beavers, Forward Movement, Locker Clubs and Vice

Atlanta's moral condition was diagnosed Sunday by Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, the evangelist, and Dr. John R. Atkinson, dean of St. Philip's cathedral, and their conclusions were radically different.

Preaching Sunday afternoon to an immense audience of "men only" at the revival tabernacle on Peachtree street, Dr. Chapman criticised the clubs of the city, indorsed the Men and Religion Forward Movement, and paid a high tribute to Police Chief Beavers.

Addressing an audience of men and women which packed the Grand Opera house Sunday night, Dr. Atkinson reiterated his former criticism of the Men and Religion Forward Movement and the Chapman-Alexander revival, and went further and questioned the wisdom of the methods employed by Chief Beavers in dealing with the vice problem.

Dr. Chapman declared Atlanta has a barrier of sin which is preventing the revival from accomplishing the success it ought to accomplish.

Dr. Atkinson declared Atlanta is an unusually clean, high-class city, which has been wrongfully advertised by the Men and Religion bulletins.

Dr. Chapman declared the Christian men of Atlanta who belong to clubs should either force their clubs to comply strictly with the law or should get out of them.

Dr. Atkinson declared, in effect, that it is none of a minister's business whether a member of his church belongs to a club.

Dr. Chapman said he had made a careful study of conditions in Atlanta and had come to the conclusion that these conditions are "serious indeed."

He said he had reached this conclusion without conference with the Men and Religion committee, although they are his personal friends and he indorses their work. He said he had avoided conferring with them for fear he would be accused of speaking to their mouthpiece.

He said he was not speaking for Chief Beavers, although he considered the chief every inch a man and a police chief of whom any city in the country might be proud. At this point he invited Chief Beavers to the rostrum, where the audience might see him, and in the course of his sermon he called upon the audience to say whether they would stand by the chief. The answer was a tremendous shout in which every man present seemed to join.

After analyzing conditions, Dr. Chapman gave his remedy, which was as follows:

First, every club in Atlanta should be compelled to obey the law in the strictest letter.

Second, an appeal should be made to the legislature to prohibit absolutely the sale of beer.

Third, every Christian man who is a member of a club should exert his influence to the utmost to bring his club in strict conformity with the letter of the law, and if he fails he should resign from the club or resign from his church.

If the remedy is not applied along these lines, Dr. Chapman declared, three results are certain to ensue.

First, Atlanta will be injured.

Second, Atlanta churches will be hindered and handicapped.

Third, Atlanta homes will feel the blighting effects of sin and intemperance, when young men and young women go astray.

The views expressed by Dr. Atkinson at his meeting at the Grand opera house were in striking contrast to those of Dr. Chapman. His audience packed the theater and at one point in his criticism of the methods of the Chapman-Alexander revival he was interrupted by a storm of applause. He rebuked the audience for this display of "emotionalism" and declared he wanted sober reflection, not an outburst born of the impulse of the moment.

What Dr. Atkinson said about the Men and Religion Forward Movement and the Chapman-Alexander revival was a repetition and a reiteration of his remarks to the Atlanta Ad Men's club, which created a sensation a few days ago.

He said the Men and Religion bulletins are doing harm by giving the impression to the outside world that Atlanta is a corrupt and unclean city, which is not true. In this connection he called upon his audience to have the courage of their own convictions instead of allowing a "moral master" to dictate their opinions and conduct.

Touching the revival, Dr. Atkinson criticised the methods and conclusions of men and women. He said if the 150 churches of Atlanta cannot save the city from sin, and have to hire outside physicians to come and cure our moral and spiritual sickness, then we ought to have the "courage to go to hell in our own fashion." He declared the revival tabernacle after the meetings close should be turned into a municipal theater.

Declaring the result of closing the segregated district in New York City was to scatter vice over the city, Dr. Atkinson said he had reliable information that Atlanta's experience with this method of handling the vice problem has been the same.

"Instead of being abolished in Atlanta, vice has been scattered," said Dr. Atkinson. "Instead of being driven out, it has been spread broadcast over the city —in the hotels, in the residence sections. We have a condition where pure girls are liable to contamination. The social evil is our most perplexing problem. Here it is not suppressed. No one has been saved. It is only scattered."

COTTON NOW UNDER CONTRACT CAN GO TO NEUTRAL PORTS

For Time Being, British Embassy Explains Blockade by Allies Only Applies to Ports of Enemy

AIM OF NEW ORDER IS CUT OFF ALL SUPPLIES

Announcement Follows Conference Between British Ambassador and Senator Hoke Smith and Others

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, March 8.—The following statement was issued at the British embassy today on the subject of American cotton cargoes going to Europe:

"Many inquiries have been received as to the treatment to be accorded to cotton shipped to Europe in view of the restrictive measures proposed to be taken by the allied governments.

"As already announced, there is no question of confiscating cotton cargoes that may come within the scope of the order in council to be issued. The following arrangement has been reached in London as to cotton consigned to neutral ports only:

"1. All cotton for which contracts of sale and freight engagements had already been made before March 2 to be allowed free (or bought at contract price if stopped), provided ships sail not later than March 31.

"2. Similar treatment to be accorded to all cotton insured before March 2, provided it is put on board not later than March 16.

"3. All shipments of cotton claiming above protection to be declared before sailing, and documents produced to and certificates obtained from consular officers or other authority fixed by governments. Ships or cargoes consigned to enemy ports will not be allowed to proceed.

TEMPORARY ARRANGEMENT.

The arrangement is said by the British ambassador to be framed to meet a temporary condition arising from the fact that Americans had made contracts, some of which were in execution, for the export of cotton to countries in the neutral countries of northern Europe, which could not be fulfilled under an indiscriminate application of the asserted rights of the British and French governments to cut off all supplies for their enemy. To prevent loss to these interest the British and French governments have consented that they may proceed to fulfill their contracts under the order in council to be later prescribed in the notice given out today.

The statement that "ships or cargoes consigned to enemy ports will not be allowed to proceed," was explained to mean that in the case of cotton ships, at least where the destination was made before March 2, or before the announcement of the British intention to stop all supplies for Germany, the cargo will be taken by the British government at its invoiced value.

COVERS ALL SUPPLIES.

As to the announcement that "there is no question of confiscating cotton cargoes that may come within the scope of the order in council to be issued," the British embassy is not yet informed when the order in council is to be issued, but understands it will cover not only cotton cargoes but all supplies destined for either enemy countries or northern Europe or enemy countries.

Consequently the arrangement announced today is to be regarded as purely tentative and subject to cancellation or amendment as soon as that order is ready.

It is reasonably certain that regardless of the treatment to be accorded supplies destined for Germany and Austria, directly or indirectly, such supplies, who non-contraband, will not be prevented from going forward to neutral countries, even after expiration of the dates mentioned in today's arrangement, provided the neutral countries have embargoes of other suitable measures, guarded against re-exportation of these supplies to Germany and Austria.

The order in council, it is understood, will indicate the conditions under which not only cotton, but all other supplies may go forward to such countries as Sweden and Norway, Holland and Denmark in the north, and perhaps to certain neutral countries in central and southern Europe, with the single reservation that Germany and Austria shall not profit thereby.

BERLIN IS CLAIMING CAPTURE OF 3,400 RUSSIANS AT RAWA

Berlin Predicts Another Brilliant Action in Direction of Warsaw by Field Marshal Von Hindenburg

NOT CLEAR WHICH SIDE IS ON THE OFFENSIVE

Attacks and Counter Attacks Form Theme of Dispatches From Capitals Regarding Fighting in West

(By Associated Press.)
AMSTERDAM, March 8.—(Via London.)—For the first time since Admiral Sir David Beatty engaged a German squadron in the North sea the latter part of January, heavy gun fire, according to a dispatch from the Hook of Holland to the Telegraaf, was heard in the North sea today.

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, March 8.—The center of interest on the eastern front again has shifted with the announcement from Petrograd that a great battle is developing on the left bank of the Vistula, southwest of Warsaw.

It is not yet clear which side has taken the offensive, but interpretations both in Berlin and Petrograd have been hinting lately that vital operations might be expected in this region. Messages from the Russian capital have declared the old field of action in the direction of Posen and Silesia alone could serve as the decisive battleground, while Berlin has been predicting another brilliant action in the direction of Warsaw by Field Marshal Von Hindenberg.

No great activity has been reported elsewhere on the eastern front except at Rawa, southwest of Warsaw, where German army headquarters claim the capture of 3,400 Russians. It is a possible this action may be a part of the great battle which Petrograd says is now under way.

Attacks and counter attacks form the theme of Paris and Berlin official communications covering events in the west, but there is no indication of a decisive gain by either side.

The attempt of the allied fleet to force the Dardanelles has caused a ferment in the near east which has reached the proportions of a cabinet crisis in Greece. No new cabinet yet has been announced and while Constantine may have great difficulty forming a ministry with the popular former premier, M. Venizelos leading the opposition. There is no late news of the situation at the Dardanelles.

The release of the American cotton ship Pacific after several days detention at Deal indicates that Premier Asquith's blockade policy has not yet been ratified by an order in council.

One of the unexpected results of the submarine war operations has been the announcement of a reduction in transAtlantic passenger rates. This may even precipitate a rate war, unless passenger lines are willing to pay higher prices for the safety of the American flag.

Germans Claim Repulse of Attacks in East and West

(By Associated Press.)
BERLIN, March 8.—(Via London.)—The German war office today gave out this report:

"In the western arena: Aviators of the enemy have dropped bombs on Ostend.

"The fighting in the Champagne district continued last night. At Souain the enemy was repulsed, after a hand-to-hand engagement. Hostilities were again renewed during the night.

"In the district east of Le Mesnil the enemy attacked in the afternoon, but this movement failed completely. Our night attack was successful; forty Frenchmen were captured.

"We repulsed attacks in the forest of Le Petre, to the northwest of Pont-a-Mousson.

"In the Vosges in the district west of Munster and north of Sennheim the fighting is still going on.

"In the eastern arena: To the south of Augustowo Russian attacks failed with heavy losses to the enemy. The fighting has been resumed in the vicinity of Lomza. To the west of Prazasnisz and east of Plock the Russians have made several unsuccessful assaults upon our lines. Furthermore German troops have repulsed two Russian night attacks at Rawa. Russian advances from the vicinity of Nowomiesto have been not successful. In the subsequent fighting we took 1,500 prisoners."

Trouble Experienced in Forming New Cabinet

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Dispatches from Greece say the situation there is grave as a result of the political deadlock occasioned by the action of Greece in the war on the side of the allies. M. Zaimis, governor of the National Bank of Greece, has not yet shown any indication of being able to organize a new cabinet to succeed that of Premier Venizelos, which resigned Saturday because King Constantine did not approve the premier's aggressive policy for participation in the war. King Constantine is understood to desire maintenance of neutrality, but Athens dispatches say popular feeling is with M. Venizelos, who has declared that he and his party will not support any new government which may be formed with a policy of neutrality.

Bombardment of the Dardanelles by the allies, which is primarily responsible for the present situation in Greece, has had its effect also on other nations. London dispatches say the Bulgarian premier has promised a statement concerning his government's position and public opinion in Italy is aroused, although there are no indications that this nation soon will change its policy of armed neutrality.

LA TOURAINE, NOW SAFE, IS STEAMING FOR HAVRE

Fire Has Been Almost Extinguished, According to Wireless Dispatch

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, March 8.—The fire on the French steamer La Touraine has been almost extinguished and the vessel is steaming to her destination, the French port of Havre, at a speed of 14 knots an hour.

The information was sent at 10 o'clock last night by wireless telegraphy from a cruiser which is escorting La Touraine.

La Touraine, belonging to the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, left New York February 27 for Havre with 84 passengers.

Saturday morning she was reported on fire about 1,000 miles off the French coast. Help was summoned by wireless and several vessels responded. The fire was brought under control and La Touraine, with all on board safe, now is expected to reach Havre tonight.

WOULD PUNISH MISUSE OF THE AMERICAN FLAG

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, March 8.—Efforts to secure the passage of the bill pending in congress to prevent desecration of the American flag will be renewed by the champions of that measure at the next session. Practically all of the patriotic societies are behind the proposed legislation.

The bill would make the misuse of the national emblem punishable by a fine of $500 or by imprisonment for one year. Many instances of alleged misuse of the flag both in this and foreign countries are cited in testimony taken recently by the house judiciary committee.

REV. ROBERT R. NORMAN DIES AT WASHINGTON, GA.

WASHINGTON, Ga., March 8.—Rev. Robert R. Norman, a prominent Methodist minister of the South Georgia conference, died at the home of his son here, R. C. Norman, Sunday afternoon, after an illness of several months. He is survived by his wife, two sons, R. C. Norman, solicitor of the Toombs circuit, Earl Norman, of the University of Georgia, and three daughters, Miss Lucile, of this city; Mrs. Sidney Dill, of Hazlehurst, and Mrs. Wilkes, of Meigs. He was buried here this afternoon.

J. A. Cooper, Former Atlanta Printer, and His Wife Are Shot to Death at Home Near Anniston, Ala.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
ANNISTON, Ala., March 8.—L. A. Cooper, fatally shot his aged father and mother while they were in bed at their farm house north of this city last night and then blew out his own brains, evidently pulling the trigger of the shotgun with a poker found beside his body.

Despondent over debts and idleness, Cooper is believed to have been temporarily unbalanced.

J. A. Cooper, the elder man, once edited the Monticello, Ga., Times, and among the effects was found a printers' union card from the Atlanta local, bearing the signature of W. H. Grant, secretary, dated May, 1902.

Little is known about the family, except that the elder Cooper was a regular attendant at Grace Episcopal church here, walking miles to church every Sunday.

Coroner Murphy is in charge of the bodies.

Aged Woman Pleads Guilty to the Charge Of Running a Still

Mrs. Lizzie Mercer, an aged woman, plead guilty Monday in the federal court to running a moonshine still in Campbell county, near College Park.

The court was frankly worried by the problem presented to him of sending Mrs. Mercer to jail, and he finally decided to suspend sentence on Mrs. Mercer's promise to quit the business.

"I'll done," said Mrs. Mercer, "and you can send your men to my place, but they'll be pretty smart if they ever catch me a-distilling again."

Mrs. Mercer said that she had conducted the still without aid except from a small child, and she explained that she had learned the process during the lifetime of her late husband. She didn't know exactly how much whisky she had made, but estimated that it must have been twenty-five or thirty gallons, which she sold for $2.50 a gallon. In moonshine circles this is considered a good price.

She said that she had given up her residence in Campbell county and now lived in Atlanta.

MANY FRENCH PRISONERS RELEASED BY GERMANS

Hundreds of Men, Women and Children Arrive at Geneva

(By Associated Press.)
GENEVA, March 8.—(Via Paris.)—One thousand French civilians who have been prisoners in the portions of France occupied by the Germans arrived here yesterday. Most of them came from Lille and Maubeuge. The majority were women and children of the poorest classes. They will be sent to the French departments nearest Switzerland.

Jesse Walker Surrenders

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 8.—Jesse C. Walker, aged 27, surrendered here last night when threatened with the guns of the coast guard cutter Seminole. He was in a boat on the Cape Fear, resisting a posse. He was reared in Metter, near Savannah, Ga. Six years ago, he is alleged to have killed the sheriff of Brunswick county, making thrilling escape.

GRAND OPERA DEVOTEES MAKE RUSH FOR SEATS

First-Day Sales Cause Directors to Feel Confident of Success

Swarms of opera devotees were waiting at the music stores of the Cable Piano company and Phillips & Crew Co. Monday morning when the sale of season tickets for the Metropolitan Grand Opera began. The rush of first-comers gave promise of an liberal patronage as any in the past, and the directors of the Atlanta Music Festival association feel confident that the season will be a success from every standpoint.

Many opera-goers have come to look upon certain pairs of auditorium seats as their own, and are always on hand early to secure their favorite locations before someone else snaps them up. There was no evidence Monday, though, of grim hand, and by arriving early they obtained the pasteboards calling for their chosen seats.

Out-of-town orders began arriving on the first mails, too, the office of Treasurer C. B. Bidwell, 1120 Fourth National bank building, being almost swamped with orders, which were filled as they arrived. Orders poured in from every state in the south, and it is indicated that Atlanta will be full of opera guests the last week in April.

TWO ANARCHISTS ENTER PLEAS OF NOT GUILTY

Abarno and Carbone Held in $25,000 Bail for Trial in New York

NEW YORK, March 8.—Frank Abarno, the young anarchist arrested in St. Patrick's cathedral last Tuesday after detectives had stamped out a lighted bomb which imperiled the lives of 800 worshippers, pleaded not guilty today to the charge of attempting to explode the bomb, a felony punishable by twenty-five years' imprisonment. Carmine Carbone, the eighteen-year-old boy arrested as the maker of the missile, entered a similar plea. Both were held in $25,000 bail for trial.

Justice Swann allowed the men until next Thursday to withdraw or change their pleas. A motion to have their bail reduced was denied. The court took under advisement a motion to allow their counsel to inspect the minutes of the grand jury which indicted them.

Abarno and Carbone faced the court smilingly. Prior to pleading they were told to select from the group of lawyers employed to defend them, four men to act as their counsel. They selected Francis J. Greco, John Palmieri, Simon O. Pollock and Isador E. Schlisinger.

The far-reaching plot which the police claim existed among anarchists to take the lives of Andrew Carnegie, the Rockefellers, Cornelius Vanderbilt and other richmen, to blow up banks and inaugurate a reign of terror in New York City, did not come before the court today.

MOTORCYCLIST SUES AUTOIST FOR $20,000

Damages in the sum of $20,000 are asked in a suit filed in the city court of Atlanta Monday by S. Michelson, an adding machine salesman, against Paul H. Lipman.

Michelson alleges that on January 30, 1915, while riding his motorcycle he was run into by an automobile driven by Lipman and that he was severely injured. The accident, he says, occurred at North Fryor street and Auburn avenue.

U. S. TELLS CARRANZA MEXICAN SITUATION WON'T BE TOLERATED

Immediate Improvement in Conditions in Mexico City Is Demanded in Urgent Representations From Wilson

NOTE IS INTERPRETED AS CHANGE IN POLICY

Tacoma Ordered From Haiti to Vera Cruz and Further Movements of Vessels May Be Decided On

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, March 8.—New and urgent representations amounting practically to a warning have been sent by the United States to General Carranza demanding an improvement of conditions in Mexico City.

Diplomatists familiar with the contents of the note which American Consul Silliman has been instructed to present to Carranza interpret it as an entire change of policy on the part of the Washington government toward the Mexican situation.

The communication to Carranza, drafted after conferences between President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and Counselor Lansing, was guarded with secrecy pending some word from Carranza and so has already been sent.

It was said by some officials that the note contained the strongest representations ever made to Carranza, and indicates that the American government is rapidly losing patience with his indifference to the objectionable acts of General Gonzales at Acapulco City.

Those who knew the contents of the communication said it did not threaten force, and was not in the nature of an ultimatum, but pointed out in explicit language the serious consequences that might attend if the welfare of foreigners continued to be disregarded.

TACOMA TO VERA CRUZ.

Early in the day secretary Daniels had said no additions were contemplated to the fleet in Mexican waters, but later it was learned that the cruiser Tacoma, now at Haiti, ordered from Haitien to Cape Haiti, to Vera Cruz. Secretary Daniels was in consultation later with Secretary Bryan concerning the situation. Further movements of vessels may be decided on.

In diplomatic quarters there were more anxiety for the welfare of the Mexican situation than at any time since the American forces were landed at Vera Cruz. The foreign diplomatists conferred among themselves and communicated to one another the latest developments as they heard them.

Some of the diplomatists declared themselves satisfied that the course of the American government would produce results. One of the ministers who had received word that the diplomatic corps would leave Mexico City cabled his legation a time saying that after learning what serious steps the American government had taken he advised the corps to remain in the capital and await developments.

Just what move now is contemplated is known only to President Wilson and a few of his cabinet advisers, but it was apparent from the attitude of officials that it was realized a new crisis was at hand which must be met with strong measures.

The general impression in official quarters was that, even if the last ounce of force had not been threatened, the American government was prepared to meet eventualities and was determined to pursue an insistent course to compel protection for foreigners and their interests.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

Secretary Bryan would say only that conditions at Mexico City had not changed since the receipt of reports of two days ago. He said no word had come directly from Carranza in the last two or three days. When asked whether Carranza and Obregon were at odds and whether the former could control his Mexico City commander, Secretary Bryan replied that the state department had evidence that Obregon recognized Carranza as his superior officer, but could not say definitely whether any friction had developed.

Secretary Bryan stated that the placing of an embargo on all shipments of munitions of war to Mexico had not been considered in the present situation. Such a move would be of little practical effect, it is said by officials, because most of the arms and ammunition available in the Carranza army has been contracted for at high prices by the European belligerents.

Scarcity of war munitions, it is believed here, already has affected Villa's campaign. The possibility of an indefinite deadlock in the military situation is known to have influenced the administration to take its stand.

The Washington government recently has been subjected to a tremendous bombardment of foreign inquiries seeking information without suggesting a solution; and the activities of the foreign diplomatic representatives is believed to have constituted a moral pressure that practically has settled matters for them.

WEALTHY MADE PENNILESS.

The plight of Americans, too, has been of increasing concern. There are more citizens of the United States in Mexico City than of any other country. Obregon's repudiation of Villa's currency worked a hardship on Americans who made many wealthy folk penniless. The poor began clamoring for bread, and Obregon practically sanctioned plunder and rioting, even predicting evacuation by his own forces if the riots developed into extensive demonstrations.

An international relief committee, composed of residents of the foreign colony offered $50,000 pesos to buy food and take charge of the situation, but Obregon refused permission for them to undertake the work.

The committee recently sent a petition to the state department, described as of a most sensational character. Secretary Bryan constantly has declined to make it public, but it is believed to have been one of the factors that influenced this government to send its note of warning to Carranza.

FINANCIERS OF WESTERN HEMISPHERE TO CONFER

Stronger Financial and Commercial Relations Will Be Discussed May 10

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Treasury officials were going ahead today with plans for the forthcoming conference of Pan-American financiers in Washington, when ways and means will be considered for strengthening the financial and commercial relations between the nations of the western hemisphere. It will be held May 10, under authorization of congress, the date having been chosen by President Wilson. An appropriation of $50,000 was provided for the purpose.

An elaborate program is being prepared for what promises to be one of the most, if not the most, important gatherings ever held in the United States for the promotion of its fiscal and trade relations with other countries. Already the Central and South American nations have indicated an intention to participate by sending their ministers of finance and leading bankers to confer with American financiers and treasury officials. In addition to sending formal invitations to foreign governments, American cabinet officers, diplomats from the Central and South American countries here and the federal reserve board will be invited to participate.

Secretary McAdoo, in a statement, said the only disappointment in connection with the conference was the failure of congress to pass the administration ship purchase bill, which would have provided steamship facilities with the South American countries. He declared the full benefits of the conference could not be realized until steamship lines are provided, adding that the conference would make it more evident than ever the need of such facilities.

BARRETT'S STATEMENT.

Director General Barrett, of the Panama-American union, today issued this statement on the coming conference:

"The conference will be the most important and practical international gathering in the United States since the first Pan-American conference Secretary of State James G. Blaine called in 1889. It is sure to receive the hearty co-operation and support of all the governments of Central and South America, and it should awake widespread interest throughout the United States. This gathering will afford the first great opportunity ever presented to formulate a 'get together' financial and commercial relationship among the twenty-one American republics forming the Pan-American union.

"It will be a constructive and reciprocal conference which should mark the beginning of a new epoch in the great business intercourse of the nations concerned and should benefit the countries of Latin America just as much as it may the United States.

MAN REPORTED MISSING DENIES "SUICIDE" STORY

Chappell Says Taking Own Life Has Never Entered His Mind

Grover C. Chappell, the young carpenter who was reported to have mysteriously disappeared last Monday, appeared at The Journal office Monday morning and asked that a correction of his reported "suicide" be made.

Mr. Chappell declared that he had not engaged in conversation with a friend, Jim Allen, at Broad and Marietta streets Tuesday night and laughed about "fooling" the police and his friends by "putting one over on them." He declares that he was at his home, 177 Currant street, Tuesday night and also Monday night. He believes that the whole story is the work of some one who desired to injure his business. He said he had been at work on a job on Ponce de Leon avenue since Wednesday and that suicide has never entered his mind.

Mr. Chappell said he had been to see Jim Allen, who was reported to have said he saw Chappell Tuesday night, and declares that Mr. Allen said he had never circulated such a story. Mr. Allen declared, according to Chappell, that he knew nothing about the affair.

PHI GAMMA SOCIETY PLANS FINE PROGRAM

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

EMORY COLLEGE, Oxford, Ga., March 8.—The seventy-eighth anniversary of Phi Gamma Literary society, Emory's oldest organization, will be commemorated Monday morning, March 8, with a special program. The alumni orator for the occasion is Prof. Haywood J. Pearce, Jr., of the Emory college faculty. He is a member of the 1913 class and the youngest alumnus to make the address in the history of the institution.

The exercises will be presided over by Dr. W. F. Melton, professor of English. The other speakers on the program are Bruce D. Newsom, of Senatobia, Miss., welcome address; Robert M. Harris, of Marietta, anniversarian. Music will be rendered by Miss Emily Melton and the Emory quartet.

DE KALB ORATORICAL WILL BE HELD ON MAY 7

(Special Dispatch to The Journal)

DECATUR, Ga., March 8.—The executive committee of the DeKalb County Educational association has decided on May 7 as the date for the holding of the county oratorical and various other contests among the boys and girls of DeKalb county public schools.

Spelling, composition, map-drawing, athletics and school house and yard improvement contests will be engaged in. Cash prizes of gold have been arranged for. In order that a more thorough interest may be aroused, the county has been divided into seven school districts and each of these districts is to have preliminary contests, the winners to take part in the county contest.

many of his advisers regarding the country's intervention in the war resulted from antagonism between the ruler and Eleutherios Venizelos, premier in the cabinet which resigned Saturday after its declaration in favor of joining the allies was frowned on by the king.

Other correspondents declare the intervention of Greece on the side of the allies already has been agreed upon, and that the apparent crisis was arranged artificially to make it easier for King Constantine to decide against Germany, to which he has felt under some obligations for family and political reasons. The position of Germany is supposed to have been responsible in a considerable measure for Greece obtaining possession of Kavala and Saloniki on the Aegian sea, at the end of the Balkan war.

Portugal Prepares to Combat New Government

(By Associated Press.)

BARCELONA, Via Paris, March 8.—The Diario de Badajo, published at Badajoz on the Portuguese frontier, announces that the government of Portugal has sent the cruiser Adamastor to Oporto as a measure of precaution.

Oporto is the second city of Portugal and is by far the largest place in the northern part of the country. "The republic of northern Portugal," was proclaimed Saturday by a congress of Democrats meeting at Lamego, forty-six miles east of Oporto, and it is presumed the warship is intended as one means of combatting this movement.

Fears of Rioting Are Increasing in Portugal

(By Associated Press.)

LISBON, March 8.—(Via Paris.)—The political situation in Portugal, which last week entered on a serious epoch with inauguration of the "republic of northern Portugal," under the presidency of General Antonio Barreto, has in no sense been improved by the resignation of Minister of Finance Galhardo, announced yesterday. As a matter of fact, a further cabinet crisis now would force developments whose outcome would be fraught with much danger.

Assumption of the duties of finance minister by the minister of foreign affairs may help the situation, but, nevertheless, there is a general demand for the formation of a national coalition ministry, to be supported by all parties, or else a distinct policy of maintenance of the present ministry provided it will agree to act in close collaboration with congress.

Should this latter course be adopted, congress would have to meet in extraordinary session at once.

Meantime fears of rioting grow, and the government is taking measures to preserve order.

French Claim Advance and Capture of Many Germans

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, March 8.—(Via London.)—The war office today gave out the following statement:

"There is nothing of imortance in the Champagne section to add to yesterday's communication. Progress reported at different points is enhanced. At the end of the day we captured trenches to the northwest of Souain. The captured trenches between Perthes and Beausejour represent 400 to 500 meters. We captured a number of prisoners, including officers.

"In the region of the heights of the Meuse our heavy artillery, according to prisoners, seriously damaged a 42-centimeter gun recently placed in position by the Germans. This gun had to be dismantled and sent to the rear for repairs. Four of the gun crew were killed and seven wounded.

"In Lorraine we progressed northwest of Badonviller.

"In the Vosges, at Reich Ackerkopf, the Germans made a violent counter attack late Sunday afternoon. For the moment they were able to gain a footing on the ridge, but after a furious hand-to-hand fight our riflemen drove them back and finally remained masters of Reich Ackerkopf. The losses sustained by the enemy was extremely heavy.

"In Upper Alsace, southward of the railway station at Burnhaupt an attack attempted against our advanced positions was dispersed by the fire of our infantry."

Germans Are United In Admiration of Emperor Wilhelm

People Do Not Believe That He Brought on War, but Consider It Just Fight in Defense of Fatherland

BY HERBERT COREY.

(Copyright, 1915, by Herbert Corey.)

BERLIN, FEB. 24.—"Let me tell you a story of the kaiser," said a German of high standing the other day. "It will explain why we love him as we do."

By way of preface I should explain that two questions have been continually on my lips during my present stay in Germany. They are: "What part in the emperor playing in the actual direction of military operations?" and "What is the German feeling toward him?" I have made a sincere effort to get the exact truth.

"Just after the battle of Solssons," said my friend, "the emperor visited one of the field hospitals. He came to a door that was closed.

"'Do not go in, your majesty,' the attendant begged, 'a dying man is there. He is so frightfully wounded that you would be made unhappy.'

"'I shall go in,' was the reply.

"Inside the room was a young lieutenant. He was still conscious and he knew he was dying. He was all alone. The services of those engaged at the hospital were needed for those there was still a chance to save. The kaiser knelt by his beside.

"'Go,' said he to the others.

"From time to time they opened the door, just far enough to peer in. Always they found the emperor of Germany on his knees by the side of the dying man, praying aloud to their God. It was not until the tortured soul had taken its flight that the kaiser left the room. There were tears upon his face.

"It may be that is not the American conception of the supreme war lord, but I believe it to be a true story of an affecting incident. Those who are in a position to speak with knowledge of the kaiser, and yet with some measure of impartiality at least, paint a pleasant picture of a warm hearted, imperious, manly man. They tell with affection semi-humorous little stories of the emperor in peace times which would be out of place in this narrative. All agree upon his kindness of heart and his reluctance to give others pain.

WAR OF DEFENSE, THEY BELIEVE.

"He has been charged against the kaiser in America that he and the military coterie which surrounds him brought on this war," said the speaker. "You will not find a German who believes that. We believe to the last man of us that his war was forced upon us; that it is a war in defense of the Fatherland. Our sole criticism of the emperor is that we believe, in an unavailing effort to preserve the peace of Europe, he held our mobilization for two days. By that fact our first blow was somewhat less effective than it might have been."

I am certain this is the feeling of all Germans. I have found no indication to the contrary. Americans who have lived here for years tell me that Germans are united in a flaming patriotism. They resent the suggestion that the emperor did not do his best to keep the peace. It may be that here and there a German may sound a note of discord. I can only say that my inquiries have failed to reveal the existence of any discordant faction large enough to be worthy the name. Whatever may be Germany's fate in this war, there is no present reason to suspect that she is menaced by danger from within.

Those who have seen Emperor Wilhelm lately say he has aged greatly since the beginning of the war. His face is deeply lined. His hair is whitening. He shows evidences of great fatigue and of great grief, but there is no lessening of the energy for which he has long been known. He is in as constant, personal touch with the realities at the front as any of his generals. It was but the other day that he stopped an automobile in front of a little German church in which services were being conducted.

"There was mud splashed upon his coat," said one who happened to be present. "His boots were encrusted with mud to the knee. It may be he had been in the trenches. His face moved as he followed the little Lutheran pastor in his prayer."

It is difficult—it is perhaps impossible—to arrive at a correct estimate of the real services of the emperor as supreme commander-in-chief of the German armies. It is certain that he is in constant touch with both fronts. It is also certain that no great plan is decided upon—a plan involving important action—until he has been consulted. It is believed that the general staff first works out such a plan in detail. Then it is submitted to him. It is quite impossible to say whether he ever overrides a decision of the staff. It is equally impossible to saw how a criticism expressed by the emperor—but not pressed—would be treated by that body of strategists. It may be accepted that his word would be supreme, if he choose to give it. No general staff would dare offer strong opposition.

A DREAM COME TRUE.

One of the most dramatic stories of the emperor is told of a visit to a field hospital. The attendants always—and quite naturally—strive to spare him pain. They led him past an unopened door.

"There is nothing in there for you to see," they lied. He threw the door open.

"Nanu, hier bin ich," said he. That may be roughly translated, "Well, here am I." A man was lying upon the rough cot. As the emperor stood over him the dying man opened his eyes. Then he smiled.

"I had a dream," said the dying man, his widely opened eyes still fixed. "I had a dream. I thought my emperor came and stood beside my bed."

"Look," said the emperor. "It was not a dream. Your kaiser stands beside you."

The man smiled again, and died.

NAT'L GUARD INSPECTION WILL BEGIN ON MONDAY

Ranks Recently Depleted by Men Joining the Regular Army

The annual inspection of the Fifth regiment, national guard of Georgia, will begin on Monday and last through the 28th of March. The annual inspection is the day of reckoning with the national guardsman and there has been much activity for several weeks, the company commanders whipping their men into shape for the annual test of fitness. The inspection, conducted by the war department, must be completed this year in all states by March 31. Colonel Orville H. Hall, commander of the Fifth, says that the regiment is working hard for the inspection although the ranks have been recently depleted by the departure of men, who have joined the regular army, the navy or the marine corps.

Col. Hall declares that recently a number of men, who acquired a liking for the military life through service in the regiment, have been thrown out of employment here, with the result that they have joined the regular service.

WANT NEW MEN.

Because of the depletion of ranks in this manner Col. Hall and the company commanders are using every effort to secure new enlistments.

The companies of the Fifth this year will be inspected separately.

The first on the list is Company I, German-American Guards, which company led the regiment in rifle shooting during 914, and the Fifth regiment led the entire state. Captain William Hartlaub with nearly thirty years' service in the United States army, is "bucking" for the leadership in property display.

Captain C. A. Stokes with Co. K, Captain Peter F. Clarke with Co. L, Gate City Guard, and Lieutenant Tom Scott with Co. M, known as the Machine Gun company follow with their companies in the order named.

The only other company to be inspected during the present week is the Grady Cadets, known as Co. B, commanded by Lieutenant Robert G. Forsyth. The other new companies are Co. F, Captain Fred J. Cooledge, commanding; Co. G, Captain Eugene Schmidt, commanding, and Co. H, Captain John W. Quillian, commanding. These four companies compose the second or new battalion, as it is called by the men in the other companies.

The first batalion, composed of Companies A, B, C and D, the band, headquarters and the supply company came along in the third week of inspection. Colonel Hall, says the night inspections beginning at 8 o'clock will be conducted in the auditorium and are open to the public. The box and balcony seats are free and parties may enter and leave as they wish.

SAVANNAH EXPORTS FOR FEBRUARY SET RECORD

(By Associated Press.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 8.—Exports from this port for February were the biggest in the history of the port by several million dollars, according to figures compiled at the office of the collector of the port. Total value of exports from this port during February was $15,972,756, approximately $11,000,000 more than the value of exports for February, 1914.

Total value of exports from Brunswick during February was $1,974,096.

EXPLAINS ATTITUDE OF TURKEY TOWARD JEWS

German Ambassador Blames Turk Officials for Unrest in Palestine

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Count Bernstorff, German ambassador here, issued a statement today declaring tolerance toward all religious beliefs has been shown by Turkey, and that the disturbances to the Jews in Palestine were caused by overzealousness of local Turkish authorities. The statement follows:

"Of late numerous alarming reports concerning the situation of the Jewish population of Palestine has arrived here.

"The government in Constantinople has, since the outbreak of war, strictly adhered to the traditional tolerant attitude toward all religions, and there has never been an anti-Jewish or anti-Zionistic feeling in Constantinople. The political unrest which for some time disturbed the Jewish population of Palestine, had been caused by the overzealous attitude of local Turkish authorities.

"But, luckily, they have in no place been followed by any excesses which could not be entirely repaired. The expulsion of several thousands of Jews from Palestine has not been the intention from Constantinople, been ordered by local military authorities, who did not wish to allow Jews of foreign nationality to remain there during the war. The German government has, however, now taken severe measures and has recalled the official who is chiefly to blame for the unrest among the Jewish population.

"The German ambassador in Constantinople, closely co-operating with Ambassador Morgenthau, has, during all this time, given much attention to the Jewish question, and has always had German consular officials in Turkey to report regularly on local events.

"The Zionistic representatives in Palestine, as well as in Constantinople, have also been give opportunity to make representations to the Turkish government through the intervention of the German ambassador and Ambassador Morgenthau. It will therefore in future be possible to prevent any local anti-Jewish agitation."

The exact cause of rheumatism is unknown, though it is generally believed to be due to an excess of uric acid in the blood, but may be also said with equal truth that no remedy has been found which is a specific in all cases. In fact the literature of rheumatism shows that there are but few drugs which have not been given a trial. In the hands of one observer we find that a certain drug has been used with the utmost satisfaction, others have found the same remedy to be a great disappointment. All physicians agree that every method of treatment is aided by the administration of some remedy to relieve the pain and quiet the nervous system and Dr. W. S. Schultze expresses the opinion of thousands of practitioners when he says that Anti-Kamnia Tablets should be given preference over all other remedies for the relief of the pain in all forms of rheumatism. These tablets can be purchased in any quantity. They are also unsurpassed in headaches, neuralgias and all pain. Ask for A-K Tablets.

FULL CARNEGIE STEEL PLANT IN OPERATION

First Time in Two Years All Departments Have Been Busy

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, March 8.—Every department of the Homestead works of the Carnegie Steel company was in operation today for the first time in nearly two years, and officials declared that orders lately received for structural materials and ship and armor plate assured activity at the plant for months. The open hearth department and the plate mill were started yesterday and the structural mills today, resulting in 4,000 men being put to work.

Orders received for pipe for the southwestern oil and gas fields has resulted in more activity at the McKeesport plant of the National Tube company. It is said that the open hearth plants of the Edgar Thompson works will also soon reopen.

"SPLIT TICKET" RULE IS OPPOSED BY SOUTHERN

Attitude of Eastern Roads Discussed by Passenger Traffic Manager Hardwick

That the Southern railway is not in sympathy with the attitude of eastern railroads toward the discontinuance of the sale of through Pullman tickets and the through checking of baggage on mileage and other forms of split tickets from New York and points east of Washington to Atlanta and points south of that city was stated by Passenger Traffic Manager S. H. Hardwick, of the Southern, who was in Atlanta Sunday.

Mr. Hardwick also expressed the opinion that the interstate commerce commission, which has the question under consideration, will hold that the proposed change, involving great inconvenience to the traveling public, shall not be made.

Discussing the subject Mr. Hardwick said:

SOUTHERN'S POSITION.

"The position of the Southern railway is simply this: That as we are selling the mileage books and they are recognized as a valid form of transportation, their use should not be surrounded with any restrictions which cause the passenger needless inconvenience or annoyance. However, there is involved in the question at issue a great deal more than the use of mileage books, for if the regulation proposed by the eastern lines is upheld by the interstate commerce commission, it will be unlawful for the carriers to check baggage through or sell through Pullman accommodations on 'split tickets' despite the fact that the eastern lines will not give these privileges to passengers wishing to travel from New York to the south on such transportation. The regulation now applies only to New York, as the tariff making it applicable to other points was suspended by the commission. Testimony has been taken and oral argument will be heard before the whole commission in Washington April 7.

MONEY IS NEEDED.

"The Southern railway needs all the money it can get, especially at this time, and we are certainly not endeavoring to aid any plan to cut the rate, but, as I said before, as long as the mileage books are on sale we do not believe that their use should be made inconvenient. As a matter of fact, the enforcement of the proposed regulation will put on the carriers a great deal of useless handling of baggage which will entail heavy expense and furnish no end of opportunities for damage claims and other troubles which are the cause of friction between the roads and their patrons, all of which we are most anxious to avoid.

"Though some isolated rulings of the commission have been quoted as indicating that it would support the proposed regulation, I do not believe it will do so, but rather that it will follow the line of reasoning of Judge Clements, in opinion 1882, which, in my opinion, states the law as regards the use of 'split tickets' and is quite opposed to the denial of baggage checking and through Pullman accommodations to the holders of two or more forms of interstate transportation, all issued under the law."

FEARING HER HUSBAND, WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Nellie Launius Says M. T. Launius Threatened to Take Her Life

Alleging that Marvin T. Launius, a millinery salesman at 69 South Pryor street, hurled a grapefruit at her and her three-weeks-old baby while in a drunken rage on Christmas day, 1914, Mrs. Nellie B. Launius brought suit for divorce possession of the child and alimony against Launius Monday in the superior court.

Mrs. Launius also obtained from Judge Pendleton a temporary injunction prohibiting her husband from speaking to her on the street or molesting her in any way. She alleged she feared for her life, stating that he had threatened to kill her. She alleged he also threatened to kill his sister and his father when they remonstrated with him after she fled to their home forprotection.

She also alleged that Launiusfor two weeks before Christmas choked her from 11 o'clock at night until 1 o'clock in the morning, abusing her at the same time. Attorney George B. Rush filed the suit.

IN LOCAL THEATERS

"Jerry," the comedy in which Miss Billie Burke will be seen at the Atlanta, beginning tonight for three nights and a Wednesday matinee, was written by Catherine Chisholm Cushing without any ulterior motives. It is just a comedy and nothing more. Its sole object is to provoke laughter and make the audience forget its troubles. In New York and Chicago and several other cities where Miss Burke has already presented it, it is said to have done precisely that. In some places it has even made the audience forget the war, which is something really worth while. Miss Burke changes her clothes frequently during the performance—Sometimes appearing in the prettiest and most girlish frocks and once in a suit of manish riding togs and once in pink pajamas.

Frank Lalor, the star of "The Pink Lady," "Papa's Darling," and other sure fine musical comedy hits, headlines the bill of vaudeville that will be the all-week attraction at the busy Forsyth. Lalor has a comedy sketch called "Back to Earth." He is supported by four clever people. Frank (Silvers) Oakley, clown of the Barnum and Bailey circus, will present his pantomime sketch on baseball, Dr. Carl Hermann, the electrical wizard and laugh winner, will be another of the star acts. Willie Weston, the character singing comedian; Misses Lightenor and Jordon, dainty girls in dainty songs; Ruby Raymond and Fred Heidler, in a vaudeville novelty, and Jimmie and Myrtle Dunedin, the Australian artists, complete the program.

The extraordinary corps of dancers in George Evans' Honey Boy minstrels this year are introduced in the second portion of the new program in two features titled "Underneath the Watermelon Moon" and "Salute the Flag." The new production and Honey Boys will be at the Atlanta for three nights and Saturday matinee, opening Thursday.

Williamson Submarine Pictures will be presented by the Universal Film company at the Lyric, daily matinee and evening this week, starting with matinee today. All seats reserved. Best seats 25 cents.

Among the wonderful and thrilling things recorded on the film are the antics of native boys diving for coins, the coral beds, botanical gardens, sunken wrecks of ships, a deep-sea diver hunting for lost treasure, a battle royal between sharks, and a fight to the death between a man and a human-eating shark.

Another inviting program of high grade motion pictures will be the attraction at the Grand daily from 11 a. m. until 11 p. m.—all seats 5 cents. In addition to the schedule of three big features each week, a special release of Mary Pickford and Pathe comedy reels adds interest to the offering. For Monday and Tuesday the program will be William Farnum, in Nat Goodwin's comedy success, "A Gilded Fool." There is a big company and the photography is declared to be sensational. Mary Pickford, in "Friends," and a Pathe comedy will entertain.

WOMAN LECTURER IS WITH FLYING SQUADRON

Of deep interest to women of church, temperance and civic circles of the city will be the meetings of Thursday of the Flying Squadron of America according to Mrs. M. L. McLendon, president of the county W. C. T. U., who announces that Dr. Carolyn Geisel of the Battle Creek, Mich., sanitarium and noted woman physician of the country will be one of the speakers. Mrs. McLendon has been in charge of the work of interesting the leaders of the various organizations in question and expects large delegations at the meetings.

With Dr. Geisel will come as associate speakers, Dr. Ira Landrith, president of Ward-Belmont college, of Nashville, Tenn., and former moderator of the Presbyterian General assembly, and Dr. Wilbur F. Sheridan, general secretary of the Epworth league, a fact which it is expected will bring out large delegations from the various societies of young people of the churches.

WIFE CHARGES HUSBAND WAS HABITUALLY DRUNK

Mrs. E. I. Sayre Sues for Divorce and Former Name

Alleging that her husband was habitually drunk and on one occasion threatened to put fifteen bullets into her body, Ollie Sayre filed suit Monday for divorce from E. I. Sayre.

Her petition sets out that she owns No. 399 East Georgia avenue, and that Sayre, apparently for this reason, expected her to pay all the household expenses.

It sets out that both were previously married and have children by these former marriages, but have no children by the present union, and that they lived together from August 15, 1912, to October 10, 1914, at which time they separated.

One of the allegations touching Sayre's alleged intemperate habits is that he was arrested for drunkenness, she foolishly paid his fine and took him home, and upon arriving she found he still was drunk and had a pint of whisky in his pocket, which she emptied and filled with water and he was so drunk he drank the water and failed to detect the difference.

She asks for the restoration of the name she bore before marrying Sayre, which was Mrs. Ollie Heck.

Attorney John Y. Smith represents her.

Negro Robber Sentenced

Ed Bobbington, colored, was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary by Judge Hill, of the superior court, Monday for robbery. The jury found Bobington had robbed Stella Matthews, a colored woman, of $32 after showing her how to cash a check for that sum on a local bank.

COLD WAVE WILL LIKELY CONTINUE FOR FEW DAYS

Forecast for Tuesday Is Fair but Still Around Freezing

The weather man holds out no hope of warmer weather, but on the other hand he doesn't threaten snow or rain, and there the matter stands.

The forecast Monday was: "Fair tonight and Tuesday."

Indications are that there will be quite a frost Monday night.

The temperature at 6 o'clock Monday morning was 32 degrees, and it will be about the same at this hour Tuesday morning.

FULTON-DE KALB MERGER PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED

Hooper Alexander and Others Will Address Decatur Meeting on Subject

Leading citizens of Decatur and of Oakhurst, which was recently annexed by Decatur, will hold a get-together meeting Monday evening in the Decatur court house and one of the principal topics of discussion will be the suggested merger of Fulton and DeKalb counties.

Among those who are scheduled to make addresses at the meeting are Hooper Alexander, Charles D. McKinney, R. J. Freeman, commissioner of DeKalb county; Mayor Hopkins of Decatur, and Raymund Daniel, secretary of the Decatur board of trade.

The proposition to unite Fulton and DeKalb counties was sprung several years ago, but it was never very vigorously pushed. Such a merger would have to be authorized by two-thirds of the voters of DeKalb county.

Commissioner Freeman, who supported the original movement, revived the proposition last week when he suggested to a committee of the DeKalb county grand jury the advisability of inquiring into the advantages of such a consolidation.

Mr. Freeman says he favored a merger because he thought it would prove a good business proposition for both counties. He says, however, that he has learned that some others who favor it are basing their support on the ground of a dissatisfaction with the financial management of DeKalb county. This attitude, he declares is unfair and prejudicial to him politically, and he states that if such arguments are to be used in behalf of the proposition he will be compelled to oppose it.

MRS. AUGUSTA C. KING BURIED IN WEST VIEW

ODD FELLOWS OF 18TH TO MEET IN CARTERSVILLE

DALTON, Ga., March 8.—The formal call for the spring convention of the eighteenth division of Odd Fellows has been issued by W. B. Robinson, division deputy grand master, for the convention to be held in Cartersville March 17 and 18.

The division is the largest in the state, embracing the lodges in Whitfield, Gordon, Murray, Catoosa and Bartow counties, with a membership of over 2,500. The spring convention customarily attracts fully 500 delegates, as officers are elected.

A feature of the meeting will be a contest in degree work between teams from Dalton, Cartersville and Stilesboro lodges, for which substantial prizes are offered.

HOME FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN NOW ASSURED

Volunteers of America Will Purchase Old Traux Sanitarium

The Volunteers of America, which opened its branch in Atlanta three years ago, will shortly purchase the old Traux sanitarium near Grant park and convert it into a home for destitute women and children. The building has about thirty rooms with all modern equipment for comfort and sanitation and in its quiet and pleasant surroundings, away from the congested business center, will make an ideal home.

The work of the Volunteers is in charge of Staff Captain J. Charles Barlar, and to him, ably assisted by his wife, belongs great credit for raising money to buy the home in the face of repeated setbacks and discouragements. During the last year his task has been especially difficult. But Captain Barlar has persistence, tact and the ability to interest people of means in his charitable undertakings. And he has won through at last.

ARRESTED FOR THEFT OF FORD AUTOMOBILE

Deputy Marshal E. V. Lassiter, of the municipal court of Atlanta, returned yesterday from Newnan, Ga., with Frank Enter, who is charged with stealing a 1915 Ford automobile from T. F. Hembre, of Alpharetta, Ga., who left it standing in front of a Whitehall street department store. The chief of police of Newnan claims to have caught Enter driving the car through that town. He arrested Enter and held him for Marshal Lassiter.

Charged With Contempt

For alleged nonpayment of $50 alimony due March 1, Mrs. S. W. Collins brought contempt of court proceedings Monday against Sam W. Collins, who had been ordered by the court to pay her $50 a month, beginning February 1. Judge Bell set March 13 for hearing the case.

Board Meets Tuesday

The monthly meeting of the board of managers of Florence Crittenton home will be held at Carnegie library Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. A full attendance of the members is urged.

WEDDING OF MISS SULLIVAN AND MR. O'DONNELLEY

News of the marriage of Mr. R. E. O'Donnelley and Miss Mamie Sullivan, both of Atlanta, in New York City Sunday, has been a pleasant surprise to their hundreds of friends here. Both have lived in Atlanta nearly all their lives and are widely known and popular.

Mr. O'Donnelley is a member of the firm of Keely company, 62 Whitehall street, having been associated with them for over forty years. Mrs. O'Donnelley is head of Keely's suit department, and for years has been highly valued by her employers both for her business ability and great personal charm. During her long connection with the firm she made a host of friends and admirers. Not only is Mr. O'Donnelley one of the most successful business men in Atlanta, but he has taken an active interest in the welfare of the city and was a leader in many projects for betterment and progress in municipal affairs.

While no definite previous announcement was made of the engagement, the marriage was not unexpected by close friends of the two. Ten days ago Mr. O'Donnelley and Miss Sullivan, with several other buyers, went to New York on the spring purchasing trip for the store. Saturday telegrams received here stated that the buying was completed, and Sunday a telegram to Mrs. J. T. Prince, of West End, Mr. O'Donnelley's sister, brought the news of the wedding at St. Stephen's rectory, New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnelley went to Atlantic City on their wedding tour. They will return to Atlanta in the near future to make their future home here.

The ensemble class of Mr. Leffingwell presented an interesting program Thursday with piano and violin, assisted by students of the vocal department.

DON'T USE SOAP ON YOUR HAIR

When you wash your hair, don't use soap. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—(Advt.)

American Minister Gives Georgia Luncheon

Mr. Pleasant A. Stovall, American minister to Switzerland, gave a Georgia luncheon on February 12, in honor of Mrs. E. P. Lawton and daughters, who are leaving Berne to make their home in Geneva.

Covers were laid for fourteen, and the round table was set in the east room of the Bellevue Palace hotel, February 12, was the anniversary of the founding of Georgia in 1732, and the color scheme of the luncheon adopted the colonial colors of the colony of Georgia, white and blue. The centerpiece was filled with parma violets, and blue ribbons connected the flowers with the place of each guest who at the conclusion of the luncheon appropriated the bouquet attached to her ribbon. Boutonnies of parma violets were grouped at the places of the gentlemen, and the place cards were also in blue, containing the coat of arms of Georgia, drawn by Miss Emily Lawton.

There were besides Mr. Stovall and Mrs. Lawton, Major and Mrs. Bucalo; Miss Marguerite Lawton and Sir Edward Naylor Leyland, Miss Emily Lawton and Baron Meyendorff, Miss Pauluccl and Mr. Charles Campbell, Jr., Miss de Groote and Mr. Burns Chichtinave, Miss Bourcart and Mr. Wellschott.

MONROE PHILLIPS, SLAYER OF SIX (on left), and Eustace C. Butts, who shot the madman at Brunswick Saturday. Below is the scene of the shooting just a few minutes after the tragedy was staged. Earnest McDonald, the sixth victim of Phillips, died Sunday. Others who were killed before the maniac was slain were Harry F. Dunwoody, William M. Hackett, R. M. Deaver, L. C. Padgett and George W. Asbell. Twenty are wounded, several seriously.

DEATH CLAIMS SEVENTH VICTIM AT BRUNSWICK

Ernest McDonald Dead and Three Others Are in Critical Condition

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BRUNSWICK, March 8.—The seventh victim of Saturday's tragedy was claimed Sunday in the death at the city hospital of Ernest McDonald. This young man was among those severely wounded by Monroe Phillips in the street shooting which followed the killing of L. C. Padgett, G. W. Asbell, R. M. Deaver and W. M. Hackett, and after Phillips had come down stairs from H. F. Dunwoody's office, where the latter had been killed sitting at his desk.

Hope was held out for McDonald until the last, but at 10 o'clock Sunday morning he breathed his last. He had just recovered from a most severe attack of pneumonia, during which his life was despaired of for many days. Together with his father, W. A. McDonald, he was engaged in the butcher business. He leaves a young widow and two small children. His body will be interred tomorrow afternoon.

The funeral of William A. Hackett took place Sunday afternoon and was attended by a large concourse of friends. He was prominent in Pythian, Odd Fellows, and the Junior Order of American Mechanics secret orders.

Funeral service over the body of Policeman Rex Deaver were held at his late home, after which the funeral party took the steamer Flessie for Frederica on St. Simons Island where the interment took place at Christ church.

The body of Ex-Policeman Padgett was shipped to Glenwood, Ga., his old home, for interment.

The funeral of George W. Asbell was held at his late residence with interment in Palmetto cemetery.

The funeral of Monroe Phillips took place here this afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. L. E. Roberts, of the First Baptist church, officiating.

The funeral of Ernest McDonald took place at the same hour from the Presbyterian church, Rev. W. H. Chapman officiating.

Services over the body of Harry F. Dunwody were held at the residence at 4:30, interment being in Oak Grove cemetery. Rev. R. E. Boykin, St. Mark's Episcopal church, conducted the services. The Elks, of which deceased was a member, attended in a body.

The condition of Gunner Tulnas who was shot in the back and lungs still is very critical.

Albert M. Way, who was badly shot in the face also is in a most serious condition. It became necessary to remove one of his eyes, the usefulness of which was entirely destroyed.

Sigmund Levison was more seriously injured than at first thought. No less than seven shot struck him, two of which entered the neck and throat. He is also at the city hospital, and his condition is considered very serious.

Funeral of Padgett Held at Glenwood

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ALAMO, Ga., March 8.—The body of Mr. L. C. Padgett, who was killed in Brunswick Saturday morning during the wholesale killing by Monroe Phillips, arrived at Glenwood in this county, yesterday. Mr. Padgett was a son of Mr. W. A. Padgett, one of the most highly respected citizens of the county. He had been living in Brunswick for several years, and up to the first of the year was member of the police force of the city.

Those Who Give Bountifully to Needy, Must First Have Robbed Them A-Plenty, Asserts Head of Industrial Commission

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 8.—A minimum wage of $2.50 a day for unskilled labor was advocated by Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the United States commission on industrial relations, in an address here last night. He said the government should retake all land procured by fraud and withhold all benefits of the tariff from every employer who exploits children and women and prevents labor from organizing for its own good.

"Every great fortune," Mr. Walsh said, "is a fundamental wrong. He who gives bountifully to the poor must have first robbed them aplenty. Every man with a fortune must at some time have crossed the line of ethics and of criminal law."

GEN. SCOTT BEGINS LONG TRIP TO REACH PIUTES

Will Travel 120 Miles Overland Into Desert Country of Utah

DENVER, Col., March 8.—Brigadier General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, today began a 120-mile overland journey into the desert country of southeastern Utah in search of Tse-Ne-Gat, a Piute Indian, wanted by federal authorities on a murder charge. Tse-Ne-Gat is being aided in resisting capture by his father, "Old Polk," and a band of rengade Piutes, who are thought to be entrenched a few miles southwest of Bluff, Utah.

General Scott was sent from Washington to seek out the fugitives and through assurances of fair treatment induce them to surrender Tse-Ne-Gat to the federal authorities. The general is accompanied by his aid, Colonel Robert H. K. Michie, and an orderly. The first part of the journey will be made in a light wagon drawn by four army mules. Indian guides will be procured at Bluff, and beyond that point rough country will force the party to travel on horseback.

United States Marshal Aguila Nebeker, of Utah, with a posse of deputies, is at Bluff awaiting the outcome of General Scott's efforts to pacify the Indians.

C. W. HOLMES' ARREST DENOUNCED BY RELATIVES

Young Man Had Nothing to Do With Auto's Disappearance, They Assert

The absolute innocence of C. W. Holmes, a young insurance man, 129 Spring street, of any wrongdoing in connection with the recent disappearance of the automobile of Dr. A. L. Whitehead, is emphatically asserted by Holmes' relatives.

They state that his arrest in connection with the case was entirely unjustified and uncalled for; that there was no foundation in fact for even the slightest suspicion against him, and that the dismissal of the warrant against him in the municipal court last week by Judge Ridley who did not even bring the case to trial, showed there was not the slightest reason for Holmes' arrest or detention.

POLICE BOARD DEADLOCK IS HOPE OF "LIBERALS"

Win Strategic Victory if One of Fain's Voters Can Be Turned to Pace

A change of plans on the part of the "liberals" of the police board followed a conference in the mayor's office Monday and the indications now are that the battle for the chairmanship between W. P. Fain and R. T. Pace will be revived at Tuesday's meeting.

Tentative plans of the liberals, who are certain of only five votes, were that no candidate in opposition to Fain be named, but that the liberals would simply refuse to vote for him.

After a conference, however, between the mayor, Councilman Edwin Johnson and Commissioners Clarke and Pace, it became known that Mr. Pace will be nominated for the chairmanship.

If one of the seven votes now slated for Fain can be turned to Pace, the board will again be deadlocked, as it was for eleven months last year, and the liberals will have won a strategic victory, as the mayor presides until a chairman can be elected.

DAMAGE SUIT CHARGES DENIED BY POLICEMAN

B. B. Haslett Says He Arrested J. B. Gordon on Mrs. Gordon's Request

Call Officer B. B. Haslett, charged in a suit for $5,000 damages brought by J. B. Gordon, in the superior court, with humiliating him and treating him roughly after arresting him without cause, filed an answer Monday denying Gordon's charges and stating that he arrested Gordon because Mrs. Gordon requested that the police protect her from her husband.

Officer Haslett states in the answer, which was filed by Coburn & Hunt, attorneys, that, on the night of January 26, 1915, a call came to police barracks from 336 Washington street, the residence of Mrs. Gordon and of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goldstein, asking that an officer be sent out at once.

Officer Haslett states he was sent to answer the call, and that he found Mrs. Sadie Gordon and her mother, with another lady and gentleman, very much excited; that they said Gordon had accosted his wife while she was returning from the Jewish temple at Washington and Clark street, and that they feared Gordon would harm his wife, as he was a dangerous man who carried a revolver.

Officer Haslett then states that he failed to find Gordon that night, but, on the night of January 29, found him crouching on the lawn of 336 Washington street, peeping through the windows. Haslett then arrested him, he said, but released him upon the request of Mrs. Gordon, after Gordon had pleaded to be turned loose and had promised not to go near 336 Washington street again.

JITNEY BUS ORDINANCE UP BEFORE COMMITTEES

Public Hearing on Regulation Measure Will Be Held Monday

The jitney bus regulation ordinance will be considered at a joint meeting of the council committees on electric and other railways and on streets Monday afternoon.

Definite action on the ordinance, which is likely to be amended before it reaches council, is not expected at the first meeting of the committees.

At Monday's meeting, however, the discussion will be open to the public, and officials of the Georgia Railway and Power company are expected to appear to urge favorable action on the measure.

Lindsay Hopkins, automobile man, and the attorneys for the several proposed jitney bus associations or companies will be present to hotly fight the proposed ordinance, which they declare would prohibit jitney buses in Atlanta.

J. N. Renfroe is chairman of the streets committee, and Jesse B. Lee, who introduced the jitney bus ordinance, is chairman of the committee on electric railways.

A Broad Program Of Street Improvements.

The public works committee of the County Board of Commissioners and the street committee of the City Council have agreed upon a broad and interesting program of improvements for Atlanta's thoroughfares. More than twenty-five miles of paving, grading and repairing will be done in the course of the year; and, what is particularly pleasing, the work will begin forthwith and will be pressed steadily forward.

Every part of the city will share in these improvements, noteworthy among which will be: the grading and paving of West Mitchell street from the A. B. and A. tracks to Tattnall street; the resurfacing of Hemphill avenue from North avenue to the city limits, the repaving of Gordon street from Lee to Holderness; the paving of Fourteenth street from West Peachtree to Hemphill avenue; the repaving of Ponce de Leon avenue from the railroad to Moreland avenue; the paving of the Campbellton road from Lee street to the city limits; the paving of Glenn from McDaniel to Whitehall; the grading of Ashby and Allene streets; the grading of West Fair from Ashby to Chickamauga, and the grading and paving of West Georgia avenue from Pryor to McDaniel.

These are only a few of the improvements which the county and city officials, acting jointly, intend to carry out; but they indicate the breadth of the program and the large number of districts that will be served. Furthermore, the members of the county and the municipal committee have planned particularly with a view to avoiding the delays and interruptions which often beset such work. They hope to undertake each job promptly and to see it swiftly through.

The county commissioners are showing true regard for Atlanta's important place in the county's interests; and both the public works committee of the Board of Commissioners and the street committee of Council are to be commended for the thoroughness and enthusiasm with which they have planned a great task.

Judging by results and battles, most of the armies are standing armies.

Farming in War Times.

For the farmers of the South, the latter half of the year 1914 was a season of bitter but valuable experience. The sudden outbreak of the European war closed the foreign market and crushed the domestic demand for an enormous crop of cotton. Thousands of planters, large and small, who had staked their hopes on this one product were caught in an alarming predicament. The price of cotton sank to six cents, or lower; and for a time little of it could be sold, even at starvation figures. Farmers who had raised their own food supplies were comparatively independent, but those who had trusted entirely to cotton were helpless against a sea of troubles. The experience was bitter, but it was worth while; for, it aroused the South, as nothing else could have done, to the danger of a one-crop system and the imperative need of diversification.

The lessons of that experience are interestingly set forth by Dr. R. J. H. DeLoach, director of the Georgia Experiment Station, in a bulletin entitled, "Farming in War Times." The South must, and the South will, says Dr. DeLoach, adopt a system of agriculture "by which the interests of the farm will not be centered on one crop or on one source of revenue;" the Southern farmer must and will so plan that if one crop fails, he will have another or several others on which to rely. The farmer must study more closely than ever before the needs of the soil, and must avail himself more largely than ever before of the means for increasing and conserving the soil's productive strength.

In this connection, Dr. DeLoach emphasizes the importance of an intelligent use of fertilizers in order that the plant food stored in the soil may not be exhausted. Only thus can abundant crops be assured and the profits of the farmer be guaranteed. "If we expect to continue to have a profitable increase from the land," he says, "we must learn to calculate just what we take from it in the form of crops, and then replace this with fertilizers in some form. If we expect to increase the earning capacity of our soils we must put more plant food in them than we take out with our crops. Our system of agriculture must be more intensified."

Diversified crops, scientific methods, food production—those are the requisites of successful farming in war times.

Maybe the optimism of Petrograd dispatches was intended merely as a prophecy.

Those nations which have mobilized and yet do not declare war remind us of the politicians who are waiting to jump on the band wagon.

Constantinople.

An eminent historian has said that Constantinople, measured by its influence on the course of human affairs, has only three rivals—Athens, Rome and Jerusalem; and even their gifts to civilization, he adds, often bear the image of Constantinople: for "Greek literature, Roman law, and the theology of the Christian church are all linked with the history of the city beside the Bosporus."

Established where Europe and Asia interflow, and commanding the narrow channel between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, Constantinople was destined by nature to decisive parts in the commerce and politics of the world. Centuries before it became the capital of the Roman Empire in the East and acquired its present name, the city was famous and potent as the Greek "Byzantium," and was a center of historic struggles. Its distinctive importance, however, dates from the year 330 A. D., when it was re-created by Constantine the Great and made the seat of the eastern half of Rome's dominion.

From then until the fifteenth century, when it was captured and held by the Turks, its fortunes were stormy and changeful. Repeatedly it was attacked by hostile nations or tribes—the Persians, the Arabs, the Bulgars, the Varangians, the Venetians; and in the early years of the thirteenth century it was overswept by the Crusaders. In May, 1453, after a brave defense of forty days by fourteen thousand Greeks and Italians against two hundred thousand Turks, the city was taken by Mohammed the Second, and became the capital of the Ottoman Empire. That event is considered epochal in the history of culture as well as politics; for, as we are told, the scholars who fled from Constantinople upon the entry of the Turks carried to western Europe their rich knowledge of Greek literature, and "by their contributions to the Revival of Learning, fostered the Renaissance and the Reformation."

In more recent times, Constantinople has been the storm center of the so-called Near-Eastern Question, that troublous problem of European politics which now is promised a solution by the guns of the allied fleet in the Dardanelles. For centuries, it has been Russia's ambition to gain a trade outlet to the Mediterranean, and her natural path to that advantage lies through the Bosporus. To this end, she has plotted and striven, but until now has been thwarted by the other Powers. In 1878 an army of the Czar pressed almost to the gates of Constantinople; but at the crucial moment the British government, under Disraeli, intervened. Russia was compelled to retire, and the lease of the Turks on European soil was prolonged.

The enmities and alliances of that day, however, have faded in the present war. The tone of the English press and even the official utterances of Premier Asquith and Sir Edward Grey indicate that Great Britain will no longer oppose Russia's aim for the Bosporus. Just what the future status of Constantinople will be, if the city is taken by the Allies, is uncertain; but there is scant doubt that Turkish rule will be thrust out of Europe and that Russia's long dream of a southern port will come true.

In the course of its tortuous history, Constantinople has undergone more than thirty sieges, but only three times has it been taken. It fell before the Venetians in 1203, the fourth Crusade in 1204, and the Turkish invasion under Mohammed the Second in 1453. Writing some years ago of the natural defenses of the city, Dr. Alexander van Millengen, professor of history at Robert College, Constantinople, declared:

> "The site constitutes a natural citadel, difficult to approach or to invest, and an almost impregnable refuge in the hour of defeat. To surround it an enemy requires to be strong upon both land and sea. Foes advancing through Asia Minor would have their march arrested and their blows kept beyond striking distance by the moat which the waters of the Bosporus, the Sea of Marmora and the Dardanelles combine to form. The narrow straits in which the waterway connecting the Mediterranean with the Black Sea contracts, both to the north and the South of the city, could be rendered impassable to hostile fleets approaching from either direction, while on the landward side the line of defense is so short that it could be strongly fortified and held against large numbers by a comparatively small force. Nature, indeed, cannot relieve men of their duty to be wise and brave, but, in the marvelous configuration of land and sea about Constantinople, nature has done her utmost to enable human skill and courage to establish there the splendid and stable throne of a great empire."

Truly, nature cannot relieve men of "their duty to be wise and brave;" nor can her bulwarks of rock and sea withstand the terrible genii which modern science has brought forth. The battleships of Great Britain and France have pierced the Dardanelles. The Present is hammering at the door of the Past. The city of Hellenic glory, of Roman grandeur and of Moslem night is trembling to another death—and to a new birth.

Spring or no spring, the baseball teams have completed their mobilization.

Mexico at least doesn't have to worry about mobilizing the troops. Every citizen is a standing army.

As a people, we are growing conservative. Here it is almost spring, and nobody has killed the peach crop.

Even if the jingoes fail to drag us into the trouble in Europe, they can always have the Japanese bugaboo to fall back on.

The people will elect Woodrow Wilson for a second term just to see what he could accomplish during normal times, under conditions like those enjoyed by other presidents.

Shakespeare Says---

When the rich blood of kings is set on fire!
O, now doth death line his dead chaps with steel;
The swords of soldiers are his teeth, his fangs:
And now he feasts, mousing the flesh of men,
In undetermined differences of kings.
Why stand these royal fronts amazed thus?
Cry "Havoc," kings: Back to the stained field;
You equal potents fiery-kindled spirits!
Then let confusion of one part confirm
The other's peace: Till then—blows, blood and death!

—King John.

The Carping Pilgrim.

Evidently, it's hard to please a Pilgrim. When the original fathers bade good-by to a churlish fatherland and fared forth in search of liberty they carried with them certain intellectual peculiarities that portended no good for those with whom they came in contact. Thus, after landing at Plymouth Rock, it is stated on the best of authority, next to Henry Cabot Lodge, that, first, they fell upon their knees, and next upon the aborigines. Divers recalcitrant Quakers, who had the temerity to think that they could think for themselves, also learned to their sorrow that such was not the case.

Whatever other heritages have been lost, this predilection appears to have been handed down by their forebears. The descendants of the Mayflower expedition, innumerable as the sands of the seashore, are as one in protest against motion picture presentations for the Panama-Pacific exposition. By all accounts, these figures are pretty, but they are not art—neither are they truth. And what Pilgrim, or descendant of a Pilgrim, isn't ready to die for truth?

It is pointed out that the Indians came forth to greet the Puritan delegation riding on horses, whereas horses were unknown in the Massachusetts hinterland in that day. Furthermore, white women are portrayed conspicuously in the foreground, despite well-known facts long cherished in New England, but somewhat neglected from Virginia southward, bears indisputable witness to the fact that the ladies came across much later. And other objections, of like important weight.

After all, isn't this the way with art and history and so many other things? Did not Napoleon, who made history, say that "history is fiction agreed upon?" Did not Felicia Hemans write "The breaking waves dashed high, on a stern and rockbound coast," when there wasn't a single dornic within miles of the landing point? Haven't we also a six-toed Indian in the rotunda of the Capitol, the joy of all visitors? And didn't the illustrator of "Tess, of the D'Urbervilles" show that sweet maiden milking a cow on the wrong side?

Art is art, of course, and history is history. But the varieties may be even more satisfactorily preserved by the criticised exposition figures than if they had shown a sanctimonious Puritan ancestor trading a handful of glass beads for some 80,000 square miles of good Indian territory.—Washington Post.

Searchlight

Ventilating a huge factory building by means of ornamental columns or pillars is a unique method put into operation with excellent results in an automobile factory lately completed in Detroit. The pillars are hollow and cherished as great ducts through which purified air, cool in the summer and warm in the winter, is circulated through the different rooms by fans located on the roof of the building.

The factory contains a million square feet of floor area and encloses 11,000,000 cubic feet of space. The wall surface contains 65 per cent of window space, necessitating a great waste of heat in winter, yet by means of the ventilating columns the temperature of the factory is kept practically uniform throughout the year.

There are eight of these fans, located in pent houses upon the roof. Each house contains a 6x9 centrifugal fan, capable of circulating 10,000 cubic feet of air an hour, and an air-washing chamber. The air is heated in winter by hot water obtained from jackets surrounding the large gas engines which supply the power for the automobile works. It is cooled in the summer by being passed through an ice-chamber in the basement.

Scientific orchardists have developed a method of spreading a blanket of smoke over their trees when frost threatens, thereby keeping them warm and saving the fruit. These men have learned that the danger time for the fruit is upon them on nights when the thermometer is below forty. When there are clouds, there is little danger for these hold the latent heat of the earth and prevent it from radiating into space. But when the skies are clear the heat goes hurtling away and the danger of frost impends.

So the fruit men have developed a substitute for clouds. They manufacture smoke to take its place. This is done by burning straw that is somewhat damp and therefore smokes a great deal as it burns. Great volumes of the smoke boil up and spreads out upon the fields. It often happens that many men in a fruit belt may be burning these smudges at the same time and that whole region may become covered with the smoke. So many a countryside puts on a smoke blanket that it may keep itself warm.

Yet this artificial comforts no wormth of its own to the orchards. It merely serves the purpose of preventing the radiation of the heat that has been stored up in the ground since the time that the sun last shone upon it.

In order that navigation near the coasts may be safe, the bottom of the ocean for a considerable distance off shore must be accurately charted, and every shoal spot, pinnacle of rock, and submerged coral reef exactly located. This work is done for the United States by the Coast and Geodetic survey.

The speed and accuracy with which hidden dangers in the sea may be located have been greatly increased recently by the development of a device called the "wire drag." Submerged wires have long been used for locating dangers whose position is already approximately known, but this method has now been developed to the point where a given area of water may be systematically and rapidly surveyed to any given depth. A wire two miles long is supported at intervals by wooden buoys, and is towed by two or three launches of forty horse-power. The buoys and the lines connecting them with the drag are so arranged that the depth of the wire may be controlled and maintained from the towing boats. When a submerged danger is discovered, a party is left to survey it in detail, while the drag continues on its way. A drag two miles long is capable of a speed of a mile and and a half an hour, so that considerable areas may be examined in a day under favorable circumstances.

This instrument is to be used in the near future to locate rock hidden pinnacles off the shores of Alaska and Maine, and in studying submerged coral reefs in the tropics.

WILL TURKEY PAY THE PRICE?

THE Allied sweep against Constantinople is assuming dimensions which may soon compel the importance of land operations in Flanders or the east. The most powerful fleet of warships that modern warfare has seen is certain to be reinforced without loss of time by large bodies of Allied troops. The seriousness of the situation is recognized at Constantinople, where preparations are under way for the removal of the government to Asia Minor. That the Allied objective will be attained is highly probable; and it is also probable that the Allies are prepared to pay the necessary price. The move against Constantinople is dictated by considerations strategic and political; and the strategic purposes involved are both immediate and far-reaching. It is elementary strategy to strike at the enemy's weakest point, and Turkey is decidedly the weak brother in the Teutonic alliance. In Flanders there is unyielding deadlock. In the east there are violent fluctuations, likewise resulting in deadlock. But Turkey is giving way everywhere. Her armies are definitely yielding before the Russians in the Caucasus, and have been driven off from the Suez canal. She is more closely best than any other combatant—in the Caucasus, in the Persian gulf region, on the side of Egypt. She must now face a deadly thrust at the very heart of her empire.

Yet it is plain that the occupation of Constantinople by the Allies would not serve to break the military deadlock in the areas of war where the conflict must be fought out, if the war is ever to be brought to a decisive conclusion. The actual help rendered the kaiser by Turkey is comparatively small. The Ottoman forces have kept two or three Russian corps engaged in the Caucasus, and a sizeable English army in Egypt. Naturally, in a war calling for every ounce of pressure, the Turkish diversion has counted to come extent. If the Russians in the Caucasus and the British in Egypt shall be released for service elsewhere, it will be an advantage. But, after all, Germany has shown such resourcefulness in matching her enemy's reinforcements that the addition of two hundred thousand men to the Allied battle-line would have no decisive results. With Turkey out of it, the situation in Flanders and Poland would be very much what it is today. What the Allies are really striving for is the political and moral fruits of a complete victory over the Porte. If the fall of Constantinople and the imminent reconstruction of the near east should set Rumania, Greece, and Italy into motion, one of the aims of the Allied higher strategy would have been attained.

But even beyond the political aims of the Dardanelles campaign there is a purpose which goes to the very heart of the present struggle: the road to peace may lie through Constantinople. The problem may be put in this way: assuming that the war drags on for months in a deadlock; assuming that all the nations grow weary of the prolonged slaughter; assuming that on both sides there will be a willingness to recognize that this war is perhaps not an Armageddon after all, that Germany need not be reduced to impotence, that the British empire need not totter and fall, that peace may come in the form of a compromise—what shall be the terms of this compromise? In Germany that is plainly the situation contemplated. "We have Belgium and part of northern France, we have part of Poland, and soon we shall have Warsaw; then we can discuss peace." The kaiser might not insist on keeping Belgium, and would most probably give up his holdings in France and Poland. But what of Belgium's sufferings which Great Britain is pledged to avenge? What about Alsace-Lorraine, to the recovery of which France has dedicated herself? And more than that, What about the state of the public mind within the combatant countries, if war should be ended by crying quits after such extraordinary sacrifices? The restoration of the status quo ante cannot form the basis of peace negotiations. The governments, if they make peace without being decisively beaten, must show some profit at the end of hostilities. Where is such profit to come from?

Not impossibly from Turkey. That was the solution proposed by one cynical observer during the first months of the war when the present deadlock was established. It is not difficult to imagine Germany giving up Belgium, but it is hard to imagine Germany paying indemnity to the Belgians. Yet how if Germany should recompense the Belgians and be recompensed in Asia Minor? At present France will not hear to surrendering her claims to Alsace-Lorraine, but may not France be placated by concessions in Syria? And for Russia there are wide horizons in Turkish Armenia and on the Dardanelles, and for England on the Persian gulf, absolute sovereignty in Egypt, gains in Africa and elsewhere. If in Europe there is to be no yielding of territory, no payment of indemnity, the outlying regions of the earth, and notably Turkey, may furnish the necessary medium of exchange at the peace conference.

This may prove to be the ultimate meaning of the Allied move against Constantinople. With Turkey beaten to her knees, the Allies in turn will have large means to negotiate with. It is a conclusion that easily lends itself to satire. But popular opinion in Europe may find this amount of justification, that Turkey is the ultimate cause of the present struggle, and should be the one to pay the price. Rival aspirations for the Sultan's heritage underlay Russian and Austrian hostility in the Balkans, and confronted those conditions in the Balkans which brought about the tragedy of Sarajevo. By definitely removing the cause of contention, the governments of Europe might make plausible claim to have been justified in the sacrifices they have imposed on their peoples.—New York Evening Post.

CONTROLLING THE FLOW OF THE OHIO RIVER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A WONDERFUL system of locks and dams on the Ohio river, which will equalize drought and flood, converting an erratic stream flow into a regular and reliable one, and increase the commerce of this inland waterway, is being constructed by the war department.

* * *

A greater number of large streams empty into the Ohio than into any other river in the United States. As a result, from Pittsburg to Cario, a distant of 960 miles, the stream flow varies so greatly from the mouth of one tributary to the next that in flood season the Ohio is dangerous with the swollen waters, while in the dry season it is sometimes barely deep enough for traffic.

* * *

Navigation on the Ohio dates back to the beginning of the nineteenth century, when the crudest kind of craft brought ores and lumber down the river from the inland wilderness. Later the old paddle wheel steamers, carrying passengers and freight, and tug fleets loaded with coal and lumber made their way to the western markets on the Mississippi, and were the forerunners of an important traffic which flourished in the forties and fifties, but began to wane in the eighties, when the railroads penetrated the country with their network of branch lines.

* * *

Many of the rivers of the Allegheny region have been improved from time to time as conditions demanded, by permanent locks and dams, but as interstate commerce grew, these facilities became inadequate and the Ohio began to lose its ancient prestige as a waterway.

* * *

Wharfage and landing and harbor facilities at large towns were insufficient, too. There was often a congestion of boats, and the fleets had to lie up in the dry seasons waiting for the high waters to carry them down. Thus, owners of packet lines lost heavily, and ceased operating; for they could not compete with the fast freight trains.

* * *

Thus the benefits of cheap transportation by water upon the Ohio were seriously impaired, simply because the locks and dams were inadequate. Accordingly, congress made an appropriation for a complete new system of locks and dams, fifty-four of them in all, that will maintain a depth of nine feet in the river all the year around. This great work is now going forward.

* * *

The project includes improvements upon many of the larger tributaries, including the Monongahela, Kanawha, Big Sandy, Muskingum, Miami, Licking, Kentucky and Barren rivers.

* * *

Two kinds of dams are being constructed—the ordinary sort of lock and dam found on all navigable rivers, where conditions are favorable for stationary dams, and the movable dams. It is proposed to construct these movable dams below the sites of large cities, in order to form the harbors which are an important part of the plan to aid navigation.

* * *

The fixed dam has long been known in the United States, but the movable dam is still something of an innovation, and is comparatively little known outside of the regions where it is being operated. It has long been known in Europe, especially in France, where it was brought to a high degree of efficiency.

* * *

The first movable dam in this country was constructed in 1885, below Dam No. 3, W. Va., on the Big Kanawha, in the heart of the coal mining district, and it at once proved to be a success. The next movable dam was constructed just below Pittsburg in the Ohio river, in 1885, and since then six more of the movable type have been constructed. It is due to the success of these dams that the war department recommended to congress that the present project be put under way.

* * *

The movable dam is one that can be raised and lowered, and consists of fixed and movable parts. Although the expense of operation is considerably more than fixed dams, it abundantly repays by the added terminal and harbor facilities it affords.

* * *

During high water the movable dam is down, giving an open river and making a saving of time in navigation. When the water is low, the dam is raised until the depth required for coal boats is obtained. This being usually nine feet. On the Kanawha, for instance, the dams are rised and lowered from five to twelve times a year. On the Ohio it will probably not be necessary to raise them so often, owning to greater volume of water.

* * *

It requires a vast army of men to install one of these dams, and also huge derrick boats, capable of lifting the tons of machinery and concrete employed, and pumping plants to keep the water down, so that the work may be done.

* * *

The foundation of the dam is laid of concrete on the bed, and the superstructure is imbedded in this concrete. The usual lock for raising and lowering boats is installed on the canal side of the river. Extending across the river, at intervals determined by engineering conditions, are constructed "bear traps."

* * *

A bear trap consists of two concrete piers, or walls, and of huge wooden shutters at each end, hinged to the bottom of the dam structure. The water is controlled by valves in the piers, and in periods of high water the natural buoyancy of the timber causes the shutters of rise, forming the trap for hundreds of thousands of gallons of water, which may be released as conditions warrant. The trap thus assists in controlling high water.

* * *

The bear traps are usually about 180 feet long by nine feet high, and control the flow of an immense volume of water. They are constructed to provide for temporary rises in the stage of the river. Between the bear trap and navigable pass is a chanoine weir, which consists of wooden wickets similar to those in the pass, but not so long. The wickets resemble a high board fence when up. The weir is used to regulate a larger rise in the river than can be controlled by the bear traps alone.

* * *

The wickets are substantially hinged upon the concrete as if the high board fence had been knocked over, and bears of the wickets or the navigable pass. The wickets are built of wood, about eighteen feet long by three feet wide, and have a space of about three inches between them.

* * *

When the water reaches a stage of about ten feet on the gauge, the crew of the dam goes out in a derrick boat, and raises the wicket by means of grapple hooks, and thereafter the boats go through the lock instead of the pass, until the river again rises sufficiently to warrant the lowering of the dam.

* * *

The movable dam is operated according to river conditions. Reports sent out each day by the hydrographic bureau, and by local observers, warn the forces at the dams below what may be expected. From experience it can be accurately determined how long it takes a rise in the river to travel between various points. It is now known that it takes four days for a freshet to reach Cincinnati, which starts at the headwarters near Pittsburg, and about five days longer to reach Cairo. The rise of waters in the tributaries has also to be reckoned with.

When the rivers begin to rise, fleets are made up for down-stream commerce. These fleets operate from as far south as the Kanawha and north to the Monongahela, both rich coal regions. When the project is completed, navigators will be able to operate regardless of the high water season. At the present time much delay due to high water is experienced in the construction of these dams, for work has to be suspended during certain stages of the river.

* * *

Eighteen of the movable dams have already been constructed and fifteen more are now under construction. The average cost of the dams already constructed has been about $1,300,000 each. It is proposed, in this "canalization" project, to put under contract about six new dams each year, so that it will require about $6,600,000 appropriation each year, in addition to the amount necessary to finish work now under way, bringing the amount up to about $15,000,000 to be appropriated by congress in 1917. After 1917 the annual amounts can be expected to decrease until 1922, which is the time set for the completion of the project.

* * *

Similar projects are in process of construction on the Brazos and Trinity rivers in Texas, and the Ouachita river in Mississippi, in order to open these streams to navigation. There are at present eight dams in the Brazos system, and it will require thirty to complete the Trinity project, two of which have been constructed.

TRAVELETTE: NEWFOUNDLAND

BY NIKSAH.

Newfoundland is called the "senior colony" because it was the first thing John Cabot stumbled across when he inaugurated the successful idea of splotching the globe with British red. It also shelters the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelen, the last remnants of French sovereignty in North America. Thus, in an odd historical sense, this rugged island is both first and last.

It seems like a caprice of nature that the soil of Newfoundland should have been made so barren and the surrounding sea so rich. Its wealth is in the nearby water rather than upon the land. There are so many lakes in its area that fully one-third of the land itself is covered by water.

Fish is the legal tender of these hardy north sea islanders. Everything depends upon old King Cod and his fellows of the finny tribes. If one is to keep in range of the conversation here, he must know all about the market price of cod livers and how much salt it would take to cure a quintel of mackerel. On a certain day the news that Skipper Ambrose had taken 9,000 cod fish in one haul of his trap caused more discussion than the cable report that Woodrow Wilson had been elected the twenty-eighth president of the United States.

In case the reader should ever have a desire to catch a cod, there is one simple procedure to remember. First locate a little fish called the caplin, and then wait. It is a never failing rule of the deep that wherever there is a caplin there is always a cod just one jump behind him.

Another reason why the inhabitants of Newfoundland have to fish for a living is that Mr. Reid, of Montreal, contracted for so many of their franchises that there are no more inducements left for them on land.

ATLANTA WOMAN'S SISTER ABOARD BURNING VESSEL

Miss Mabel Persons' Suspense Relieved by News That All Are Safe

Atlantians downtown Saturday morning were interested and held at attention by the first press dispatches telling that the French liner La Touraine was afire in mid-ocean and that several ships were speeding to her aid. The news was told under big headlines. It indicated another great marine disaster.

But there was at least one exception among all those who read the story with impersonal interest and then put the paper aside. That exception was Miss Mabel H. Parsons, a Canadian, member of the faculty of Spelman seminary in Atlanta.

Miss Parsons was just leaving the postoffice when she heard the newsboys crying their papers. One of them rushed past her and she caught the two words, "liner afire," in the headlines.

"It must have been intuition that whispered, 'That's the boat your sister's on,'" said she, Monday, telling friends of the experience. "I called the newsboy and bought a paper, only to have my dread confirmed at one glance. I saw the name 'La Touraine!' It was the boat she had sailed on."

The fearful import of the news dazed her a moment. She was brought back to a realization of her surroundings by a touch on her arm. A friend stood beside her, hat off, smiling. His automobile was at the curb.

"Quick!" she said. "Take me to the telegraph office. I'll explain on the way."

In The Journal building she addressed a nearly frantic inquiry to Miss Jordan, superintendent of the French hospital, New York. She wanted to know all that had been reported there about La Touraine, and particularly about Miss Nellie Burdette Parsons, her sister, one of the passengers.

Less than three hours later she received the reply: "Just heard. All safe."

Miss Parsons was awaiting Monday further particulars.

She explained that her sister, her only near relative, is one of the party of ten graduate nurses and several physicians who started recently from New York for France to establish and operate a new hospital for French soldiers in the neighborhood of Paris. This hospital is to be equipped and maintained in a famous old chateau by the Fitzgerald foundation, which was endowed recently by Mrs. Fitzgerald, a wealthy New York woman. Miss Nellie Burdette Parsons is a graduate nurse of the French hospital, New York, which is the headquarters in this country for the Fitzgerald foundation.

MANY GEORGIANS WILL NOT GET 1915 PENSIONS

Certificates Held Up by Ordinaries Reach Commissioner Day Late

Between 75 and 100 Georgians who are expecting to draw pensions from the state this year will be disappointed because the ordinaries of several counties sent in their certificates too late to get their names on the 1915 rolls.

None of those pensioners whose names have previously been enrolled with the pension commissioner are affected. Each year a number of new names are added to the pension rolls under the service pension act of 1910. Section 2 of this act provides that only those persons whose certificates have been filed with the state pension commissioner by November 1 of the previous year may draw pensions.

Last year November 1 fell on Sunday and the lists of several ordinaries did not reach the commissioner of pensions until Monday, November 2. Commissioner J. W. Lindsay consulted Attorney General Warren Grice and the latter held that the law was very plain—that the certificates must be filed by November 1, and that it makes no exception in cases where that date falls on Sunday; hence, they cannot pay the pensions of those whose certificates did not reach the commissioner on time.

It is understood that some of the ordinaries had some of these certificates in hand for weeks but waited until they got them all in to send at once before they mailed them to the pension commissioner. These letters, practically all of which were mailed on Saturday, October 31, were not delivered at the office of the pension commissioner until Monday, November 2.

Through the inadvertence of the ordinaries between 75 and 100 persons will have to wait until next year to get pensions.

NEWSIES DINE ON PIES AT EXPENSE OF ELKS

Five hundred pies were consumed by 250 newsboys at the Elks' pie benefit at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday. Walter P. Andrews was in charge of the affair. An attractive program of songs and music was carried out while the newsies munched peach and apple pies.

The "Big Brother" committee of Atlanta lodge, No. 78, B. P. O. E., gave the benefit to the newsies, who enthusiastically declared that "B. P. O. E." stood for "Best People on Earth." A few pies were left over; these were sent to the Home for the Friendless.

STATE TRAINING SCHOOL FOR GIRLS TO HAVE HANDSOME NEW BUILDING

Capacity of Institution Will Be Increased From Fifteen to Fifty When Modern Structure Is Completed

The handsome new building of the Georgia Training School for Girls, view of which is shown in the accompanying picture, will be completed within the next week, and its completion will give the school a capacity of caring for fifty wayward girls.

The school is located on a hundred-acre tract of land on Baker's Ferry road, twelve miles south of Atlanta. This acreage, two frame buildings and a considerable amount of cash was given by Fulton county to have the institution located here.

Although the old frame building can only accommodate fifteen girls comfortably, it is now housing twenty. The new building, which is brick and stone construction, with commodious basement and two stories, will provide accommodations for thirty-five girls. This building is thoroughly modern in every respect.

It was the legislature of 1913 which made the institution possible by an appropriation of $20,000—$10,000 for maintenance and $10,000 for a building. The school receives wayward girls from all sections of the state and seeks to reclaim them. The girls attend school, are taught sewing, cooking, laundering and work in the gardens.

Wilmer L. Moore, well known Atlanta insurance man, is chairman of the board of managers, and Miss K. B. Koebelsperger is superintendent.

RAILROADS WIN FIGHT AGAINST REDUCED RATES

North Dakota Coal Rate and W. Va. Passenger Rate Laws Held Confiscatory

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The supreme court, in annulling as confiscatory the North Dakota lignite coal rate law and the West Virginia 2-cent passenger law as applied to particular roads, today laid down the far-reaching principle that states cannot reduce the return from specific commodities of businesses to practically nominal profits on the theory that adequate returns may be procured on other articles or activities.

The North Dakota law was annulled as it applied to the Northern Pacific and the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault St. Marie, and the West Virginia law as it applied to the Norfolk and Western.

"The state has broad powers over railroads, but it does not enjoy the rights of an owner," said Justice Hughes, rendering the North Dakota decision.

"It is presumed—but the presumption is a rebuttable one—that the rates which the state fixes for intrastate traffic are reasonable and just. When the question is as to the profitableness of the intrastate business as a whole under a general scheme of rates, the carrier must satisfactorily prove the fair value of the property employed in its intrastate business and show that it has been denied a fair return upon that value.

"With respect to particular rates, it is recognized that there is a wide field of legislative discretion. . . . But this legislative power cannot be regarded as being without limit. The constitutional guaranty protects the carrier from arbitrary action and from the appropriation of its property to public purposes outside the undertaking assumed; and where it is established that a commodity, or a class of traffic, has been segregated and a rate imposed which would compel the carrier to transport it for less than the proper cost of transportation or virtually at cost, and thus the carrier would be denied a reasonable reward for its service after taking into account the entire traffic to which the rate applies, it must be concluded that the state has exceeded its authority."

In the West Virginia rate decision, the court pointed out that the net profit procured during a year's test of the 2-cent passenger rate by the Norfolk and Western had been found by the West Virginia state courts to be practically nothing.

Justice Hughes also announced the West Virginia decision, saying: "The passenger traffic is one of the main departments of the company's business; it has its separate organization and management and of necessity its own rates. In making a reasonable adjustment of the carrier's charges, the state is under no obligation to secure the same rate of return from each of the two principal departments of business, passenger and freight; but the state may not select either of these departments for arbitrary control. It would appear to be outside the field of reasonable adjustment that the state should demand the carriage of passengers at a rate so low that it would not defray the cost of their transportation, when the entire traffic under the rate was considered, or would provide only a nominal reward in addition to cost."

ATLANTA ATHLETIC CLUB PLANS REORGANIZATION

Asa G. Candler, Jr., Probably Will be Named President at Meeting Monday

Reorganization of the Atlanta Athletic club will be held at a meeting of the membership at the Auburn avenue clubhouse Monday night, and Asa G. Candler, Jr., will, it is believed, be named president of the institution.

If proposed amendments to the constitution of the club are adopted, as they probably will be, the number of directors of the club will be reduced from twelve to five, and the complete control of the organization vested in this board of directors or governors.

Three of the five directors will be elected by the membership, and one of the three so elected will be president. No name except Mr. Candler's has yet been suggested for the presidency. The three directors elected by the membership shall appoint the other two directors, one of whom shall be the trustee or representative of the holder of the club's outstanding bonds, who is Asa G. Candler, Sr.

The proposal to reorganize the club is the outgrowth of a recent meeting at which a minority of the club advocated the separation of the two branches of the institution, the East Lake country club and the downtown athletic club.

WM. J. HARRIS HERE ON CENSUS BUSINESS

Director Personally Looks After Census of Georgia Manufacturers

For the first time since President Wilson appointed him a member of the important federal trade board, William J. Harris, director of the United States census, is in Atlanta. Mr. Harris, who is being warmly congratulated on the high honors which have come to him, is here on a brief business trip and will return to Washington Wednesday.

He is to give up the office of director of the census next Monday, at which time he will enter upon his new duties. Mr. Harris came to Atlanta at this time to personally look over the work of taking the manufacturers' census of Georgia which is now in progress under the management of W. S. Coleman, of Atlanta.

Marion C. Howard, special agent of the census department, accompanied Mr. Harris here, and with Mr. Coleman they are meeting with the ten census agents who are taking the manufacturers' census in north Georgia. These field agents, who, along with those for the remainder of the state, were appointed several weeks ago, are holding a two-days' session at the Kimball house. They are being given their final instructions by Messrs. Harris, Coleman and Howard.

Following this meeting Mr. Coleman and Mr. Howard will meet with the other field agents in the centers of middle and southern Georgia. All of the work of the manufacturers' census for Georgia has been mapped out and a card has been prepared for each manufacturer.

Mr. Harris states that this work is well under way in every state of the union. He says he is especially anxious that Georgia make a good showing and that for this reason he decided to come here and go over the work with Mr. Coleman before he retired from the census bureau.

TAKES OUT WRIT TO KEEP HUSBAND HERE

Simultaneously with the filing of a suit for alimony, Mrs. Gertrude Manning took out a write of ne exeat against her husband, E. E. Manning, to prevent his leaving the city. He was arrested and placed under bond of $200 to remain within the jurisdiction of Fulton superior court.

Mrs. Manning sets out in her petition that she was married to Manning in August, 1913, and separated from him in December, 1914; that he refused to support her or give her any money, though making $27.50 per week as a mechanician; that he was frequently drunk and abused her; and that he never looked upon their child until it lay dead from pneumonia.

She claims that her own earnings are not over $4 per week and that she has to suport herself and her aged mother.

SUIT FOR LIFE INSURANCE SETTLED BY AGREEMENT

After a conference Saturday between Burton Smith, attorney for, Mrs. J. E. McRee, guardian of Mrs. Anna M. Tate, and Attorneys McDaniel & Black, representing Mrs. Amelia S. Gaines, $1,500, due for the death of George W. Tate under a policy with the United States Letter Carriers' association, was divided between Mrs. Tate and Mrs. Gaines.

Mrs. Amelia S. Gaines, with whom the late George W. Tate boarded, was the beneficiary named in the policy. Mrs. Anna M. Tate, widow of the deceased, brought suit, through her guardian, to recover the full amount of the policy, claiming that under Georgia laws only relatives could be named as beneficiaries in a policy like this. The division of the money between Mrs. Tate and Mrs. Gaines settled the suit.

ASA CANDLER WILL TELL AD MEN ABOUT ATLANTA

Rumor Says He May Reply to Some of Dr. Atkinson's Statements

Believing if there was one man who is qualified to tell them some things about Atlanta which they do not know themselves, it is Asa G. Candler, president of the Central Bank and Trust corporation, the Atlanta Ad Men's club has invited him to deliver the address at their regular luncheon Thursday at 1 o'clock at the Winecoff hotel.

Mr. Candler has accepted and while the only intimation he has given as to what he will speak about is that his subject will be Atlanta, it is said among the Ad Men that he will have some new and interesting things to tell them. It is hinted in some quarters that he will make reply to some of the statements which were made by the Ad Men's club at their last luncheon by Dean John R. Atkinson, of St. Philip's cathedral. Mr. Candler, as is well known, has some strongly defined ideas upon these lines, and should he speak in this direction there is no doubt of the fact that he will have something out of the ordinary to say.

Feeling satisfied that there are many business men in Atlanta who would be glad to hear Mr. Candler on this occasion, the Ad Men's club extends an invitation to any of those who are not members to be present at this luncheon. Arrangements will be made for them if they will notify Secretary J. H. Atchison, at the Southern Bell Telephone company, that they desire to attend. Members of the club are already discussing Mr. Candler's address in anticipation, and there is no doubt about the fact that there will be a large attendance.

JUDGE BROYLES SPEAKS ON "THREE PITFALLS"

Judge Nash R. Broyles, of the state court of appeals, delivered an address on "Pitfalls" at the Kirkwood Methodist church Sunday evening. After reading the parable of the Good Samaritan he spoke of three pitfalls—extravagance, gambling, the whisky evil. The church was filled.

Monday evening the board of stewards of the church will be entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Smith and James L. Mayson, of Atlanta, will deliver an address on "Christian Stewardship."

MORE AID FOR SCHOOLS URGED BY REV. LINE

Better support for the entire public school system, especially the Normal Training school, which has recently been under fire, was urged Sunday morning by Rev. Fred A. Line in his sermon at the Universalist church.

Mr. Line spoke on the subject, "The Process of Salvation," and devoted a part of his sermon to the school system.

PLAN PROBE OF BIDS FOR FIRE APPARATUS

A special meeting of the board of firemasters has been called for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning to investigate charges by William Drysdale of irregularities in the receiving of bids for fire apparatus last year.

Purchasing Agent W. E. Chambers and B. G. West, chief clerk of the comptroller's office, declare the bids were properly received and handled, but the mayor says he is willing to make an investigation of the statements of Mr. Dryedale, whose company lost the bid.

The bid accepted was that of the American La France company, represented by P. O. Hebert, who sold the city an engine for the Fifth ward station for $13,750.

MORE POSTMASTERS FOR GEORGIA NAMED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The following Georgia postmasters have been named: Beards Creek, Liberty county, J. W. DeLoach, vice J. R. Dukes, resigned; Folson, Bartow county, L. A. Adams; Allatoona, Bartow county, W. P. Griggs; Shack, Chattahoochee county, R. L. Willis; Shiloh, Harris county, R. S. Fuller.

HARRIS WILL GIVE THREE POSITIONS TO GEORGIANS

Miss Gertrude Whitaker of Milledgeville Will Be His Secretary

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—William J. Harris, retiring as director of the census, will be sworn in Monday week as a member of the federal trade commission. He announced today that it was his purpose to retain Miss Gertrude Whitaker, of Milledgeville, as his private secretary, in his new position. He arranged also for the employment by the trade commission of Judge J. J. Dunham, of Marion county, and W. T. Roberts, of Douglasville, as special attorneys. Dunham and Roberts have been engaged by the bureau of corporations, which ceases to exist with the organization of the trade commission.

Suit for Divorce

Alleging that his wife, Mrs. Daisy Brown, formerly Miss Daisy Livingood, deserted him December 31, 1911, after marrying him in 1905, A. E. Brown brought suit for divorce against her Monday in the superior court. He asked for the possession of their two children. Don K. Johnson, attorney, filed the suit.

HORN WEEPS WHEN HE IS HANDCUFFED TO OFFICER

Will Be Arraigned for Illegal Transportation of Explosives

(By Associated Press.)

MACHIAS, Me., March 8.—Werner Horn, the German who attempted to blow up the International bridge at Vanceboro, was taken to Bangor today for arraignment on a federal indictment charging illegal interstate transportation of explosives. He was arrested yesterday on expiration of sentence of thirty days in the county jail for damaging property at Vanceboro.

United States Marshal Wilson handcuffed Horn to a deputy. The prisoner protested, and wept when the shackles were fastened.

The Superb Madame Irene

In the Successo we have an inexpensive corset that proudly holds its head above the ordinary corset at the same price.

It is made by the Madame Irene people—and no corset makers in America are more resourceful in originating styles than they are.

But the big fact is that the Successo is made in the same styles as the Madame Irene—so, for the lines of a corset it would be very, very hard to find one that more closely approximated the styles of the season than the Successo.

The Successo Is Priced at $2, $2.50, $3.50 to $5

And we warrant it is the ultimate value at each of these prices.

If you are accustomed to paying to $2.00, $2.50, $3.50 to $5.00 for your corsets, suppose you try a Successo this spring.

It may be had in any number of models (the new models for spring have arrived), for the slight, the average, the stout figure. It is boned with genuine Whalon; the materials in the models up to $3.50 are coutils, above that satin damasks and brocades.

And there's not a style point of the season missing.

An Exposition of Spring Cottons

Turn into Cotton Goods aisle as you enter the store (to the left); here are the cottons favored this spring. And surely it seems all of them are here!

We have selected cottons in such quantity and variety that you may indeed look upon this display as an exposition of "what is what" in cottons this spring.

There is no detailing the display—there are unnamed novelties, the voiles, the dimities, the crepes, the organdies, the silk and cotton fabrics in colorings as gay as the rainbow, in snowy whiteness.

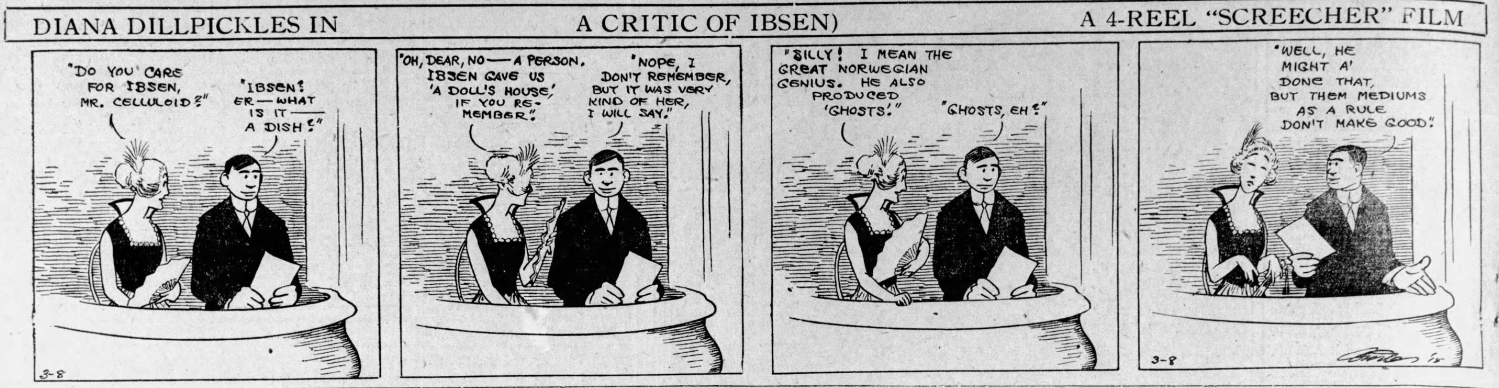

It all means the spring sewing will be a joy this year.

Local Baseball Club Favors Baugh for the Presidency of Southern League

DIANA DILLPICKLES IN A CRITIC OF IBSEN) A 4-REEL "SCREECHER" FILM

Baugh Is Choice Of Local Club

Birmingham Man Favored for Presidency of League to Succeed Judge Kavanaugh

Robert H. Baugh of Birmingham for the presidency of the southern league to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Kavanaugh. This is the tip being passed out locally by those who are in a position to know the inside information. Just how definite the tip is, and how well plans have been laid, can not be learned, but it is definitely known that the wires have been ticking on the proposition, and a definite plan has been worked out.

President Frank Callaway of the local club left for Birmingham last night. The club owners of the league will meet there today to hold the election. Baugh has gracefully sidestepped the issue of being formally and actively placed in the running as a candidate, but it is learned on good authority that he will accept if the position is offered him. The local club favors him, and the tip has been passed out here that at least two others beside the Birmingham club are also favorable to his candidacy.

There is hardly a possibility that a local man will be chosen for the place. The local club is therefore free to use its influence as it sees fit in voting for any of the men who are being urged for the place. However, the locals have another plan which they propose to urge forcefully before the meeting. This plan is to put in Secretary A. B. Parker of the local club as secretary of the league. Parker has had wide experience in baseball matters, and there are few men in the south better informed in baseball matters. Furthermore he is an excellent business man, and there is no doubt at all but what he would make an admirable choice for the position.

Under President Kavanaugh's administration, the presidency and secretaryship were combined. However, it is likely that the two offices may be separated now that a new man is to be chosen for a period of one year only. President Kavanaugh was chosen for a period of five years at the last election, but it is believed here that the term will be cut to one year in the coming election.

Former Auburn Fullback Slain

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 8.—William H. Christopher, Jr., of this city, member of the champion 1913 football team of the Alabama Polytechnic institute, was shot and killed early Sunday at Atlantic Beach, near here. John Flynn, a chauffeur, is in jail charged with having caused his death. According to the police, Christopher and another man named Eberhardt were engaged in a fisticuff and Flynn interfered. Flynn, they assert, admitted firing the shot, but says that he tried to shoot into the air to frighten the combatants and end the fight.

Local fans will recall Christopher as one of Coach Mike Donahue's great quartet of fullbacks in 1913. Harris, Christopher, Hildez and Sparkman composed the bunch of human rams that tore its way through all opposition on the gridiron that season. Christopher did not return to Auburn last fall.

Cardinals Want Outfielder Bescher

MARLIN, Tex., March 8.—The St. Louis National league club wants "Bob" Bescher, New York National outfielder, in exchange for W. D. Perritt, pitcher, it was said on good authority here yesterday, after Miller Huggins, manager of the St. Louis team, and John McGraw, leader of the New York club, had conferred over the proposed deal. It was said St. Louis probably would get a recruit in addition to Bescher.

Perritt recently returned to organized baseball, after Federal league officials announced he had signed with them.

Bill James Starts For Braves' Camp

CHICAGO, March 8.—"Bill" James, pitcher for the Boston Nationals, left here last night for Macon, Ga., with the intention of working out the two years he contract with Manager Stallings calls for. He spent much of Saturday with Charles Weeghman, president of the Chicago Federals, and sought to sign a contract with the Federals, according to Weeghman, but was not eligible because of his contract with Boston.

Murch Chosen to Lead Thomasville

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 8.—R. J. Murch, who played third base for the locals last season, has been chosen to manage the club during the 1915 campaign. This action was taken at a meeting of the directors here yesterday. Murch succeeds Dudley, who handled the team for two years, and who has gone to take charge of the Augusta team in the South Atlantic league.

"Here's to "The days that might have been;"
Here's to "The life I might have led;"
The fame I might have gathered in—
The glory ways I might have sped.
Great "Might Have Been," I drink to you
Upon a throne where thousands hail—
And then—there looms another view—
I also "might have been" in jail.

O "Land of Might Have Been," we turn
With aching hearts to where you wait;
Where crimson fires of glory burn,
And laurel crowns the guarding gate:
We may not see across your fields
The sightless skulls that knew their woe
The broken spears—the shattered shields—
That "might have been" as truly so.

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen"—
So wails the poet in his pain—
The saddest are, "It might have been,"
And world-wide runs the dull refrain.
The saddest? Yes—but in the jar
This thought brings to me with its curse,
I sometime think the gladdest are

"England plans heavy revenge against Germany." But how can England get close enough to blow up the breweries?

EXPLAINING IT.

Dear Sir: Will you please explain to me the reason for all this sympathy or alleged sympathy for the veteran ball player who loses out? As a rule he is still in possession of his heath and is generally under forty. I'll admit such sympathy is all beyond me. D. L. J.

The average veteran who drops out isn't a star and never was one. As a rule, he has given his career to baseball and he has made only enough money to support his family. As a rule he is through at thirty-five, supposed to be the prime of life. At that age he has given his best years to a profession that leaves him trained for no other job.

But there is something beyond all this. Baseball brings the player beneath the spotlight. As a big leaguer his name and his record are known from coast to coast and back again. He has grown accustomed to the old hip-hip and the jubilee. He has been favored with the admiration of thousands. And then, almost without warning, he drops into the night.

THE CASE OF WALSH.

It is hard to see how any sport loving citizen could refrain from sympathizing with Ed Walsh. With him it isn't a matter of salary loss to any great extent. But here is a great pitcher who had grown accustomed in game after game to swing in, amid the cheers of the enraptured populace, from the far corner of the field, to rescue a battle banging in the balance. And then, while still a young giant in the best of health, something cracks in the shoulder blade—the old rubber wears out or the mainspring snaps—and Walsh is a spectator and the old huzza is hushed.

Sympathy doesn't always involve finance, even in this commercial age. It often sinks quite a trifle deeper.

WITH APOLOGIES TO MAUDE.

Frank Baker, on a summer's day,
Raked the meadow sweet with hay.

Beneath his old cap glowed an eye
That used to hit 'em far and high.

And as he grappled with the bean
He pondered on the Old Machine;

The Good Old Days when long ago
He waved a bat—and not a hoe.

And as he raked among the rocks
He thought of Marquard in the box;

He seemed to hear a crashing clout—
And then a mighty cheer and shout.

Frank Baker on a summer's day
Arose and beat it from the hay.

Arose and sent this wire to Mack—
"Please can I have the old job back?"

"Mack arrives with a club at Jacksonville." But he left a lot of baseshits behind at Trappe, Md.

Jack Warhop is deeply interested in Bill Donovan's run-getting tactics. Last season Jack lost five 1-0 games, all finely pitched, and he would esteem it unusual bliss if Bill can develop an offence that will at least net an average of one run to each start.

"No civilized country," says an exchange, "will stage any Johnson-Willard fight." This may be true enough. In fact, it sounds quite reasonable. But it still leaves a wide range and a great many continents for Johnson and Willard to meet in.

No civilized country would stage what Europe is putting over either, but that has nothing to do with closing out the war.

"I see where the Irish are supposed to be disappearing from baseball," comments F. L. J. "Aren't there still more great Irish players than any other nationality?"

An all-star club would have for catchers Archer, Irish, and Schang, German; for pitchers Johnson, Scotch-Irish; Alexander, Scotch; Mathewson, English; Rudolph, German. For the infield McInnis, Irish; Collins, Irish; Maranville, Irish; Baker—an English moniker. The outfield would be Cobb, Speaker and Crawford, being neither Irish nor German. Just the plain old American name, minus the hyphen, rules the game by a wide margin still.

Crackers Begin Work Wed'sday

Manager Smith Will Send All Who Are Here at That Time to Regular Daily Practice

Wednesday of this week is the day chosen by Manager Billy Smith to start in such of the Crackers as are on hand by that time at regular practice work. In serving notice on the boys to report, Billy asked that they arrive here some time between the 10th and 15th. Don Flynn tired of waiting and came on in several days ago, and it is expected that several others will be here by Wednesday. Others will be considerably later in arriving, but all are expected to be here by the last of the week.

Roy Moran, Hack Eibel, Don Flynn, Frank Browning, Pitcher Williams, Ed Coffey and Terry are here now, and this list will doubtless be increased by several other arrivals between now and Wednesday. A good percentage of the bunch live within twenty-four hours' ride of Atlanta, and these are expected to get here on time.

If weather conditions are favorable during the current week, Manager Smith expects to get the park in good shape. There is quite a lot of work to be done yet in finishing the job up to receive the fans when the exhibition season begins, but as the first games are some two weeks away there should be little difficulty in completing the job by that time.

Big Week Ahead For Local "Y"

Th following compose the calendar of events for the current week at the Young Men's Christian association. March 8, third classified aquatic meet for school B boys, 3:45. Events:

Trailing The News

BY INNIS BROWN

These be progressive times, whether you be engaged in merchandising, professional work, or the arts, and under the second head comes baseball. It has remained for Manager Johnny McGraw of the Giants to introduce the latest stunt into the list of training stunts for ball players in the early spring season. Manager John is having dancing, tangoing, turkey-trotting, fox-trotting and all of the modern wrinkles of the terpsichorean art imparted to his athletes and that too by a professional instructor.

Down at Marlin, Texas, there isn't much to do at any time, and especially after the sun disappears, and ball players can no longer engage in the earnest pursuit of rounding themselves into condition for a hard campaign through the long summer month. This fact is even more harsh and grating, when the weather happens to be bad, and the boys must stay indoors practically day and night. Accordingly the Giant pilot has engaged the services of a professional dancer, and now doing the hesitation and fox-trot by night is taking rank with the rather more strenuous Brodie into the sliding pit by day.

Now that dancing has broken officially into baseball, that makes it about unanimous. Everybody's doing it. Prize fighting boxers, or at least a good percentage, have been onto the stunt for lo, these many years.

Nap Lajoie may be an old dilapidated wreck, but just the same the Athletic rookies at Jacksonville have yet to learn of the fact from personal observation. In a practice game a few days since, Larry decided he would take a whirl at the shortstopping job. He acted like he was born and bred to the job. And what do you suppose he did on his first trip to the plate. Bloo-ey, right on the nose. A clean single.

In a practice game a day or so ago, Ping Bodie playing against the White Sox smashed the ball for a home run. One caustic scribe was moved by the performance to observe, however, that Ping did more to beat the White Sox while an actual member of the team than giving the opposition one run a game.

Jonathan Dobbs is putting in all of his spare time just now in scanning the horizon for a good left-hand flinger for his Pelicans. Dobbs has recently signed up Cy Morgan for a trial. A few years since Cy had worlds of stuff, and was considered a great hurler in the American league when he was right. If he can do a come back, the Pel boss has landed a good one.

"Dutch" Schaefer may be just about through as a regular ball player, but the Teuton still carries his old self-assurance. A few weeks ago Joe Kelly declined to let Jim Bluejacket, the Federal pitcher who jumped the Giants, work out with the Yankee recruits at Hot Springs, but when Shafer arrived on the scene he never even asked Kelly to let him work out. Just grabbed a uniform and went on out with the gang.

Here's another bit of romance in baseball. Jacinto Calvo, who strung along with the Crackers a short time a couple of seasons ago, is heartbroken. Calvo played last season in the Northwestern league. He hit a little better than .250, but he is woe-stricken because he didn't hit .299, the mark set by his sweetheart. Because he fell below that mark, his senorita refused to gallop with him to the strains of a wedding march.

Tech to Stage Road Race Sat.

Tech runners will stage their annual cross-country run on Saturday of this week. This race will be held over the regular route from Grant field to the waterworks and return, a distance of some three miles. Great interest is being manifested in this event, and it promises to be hotly contested this year. Rex Powell, last year's winner, and Alvin Cowles are regarded as the most likely winners. Powell holds the record for the course with 18 minutes, 17 seconds. He is in condition for a strong race, and the chances are that he will lower this record. Cowles was a strong contender last year, and may displace the winner in this contest.

Several merchants in the city have offered prizes for the winner and others who finish well up, and it is expected that a large bunch will face the starter. The race will be started about the time the first baseball game of the season for Tech is staged with Riverside, and the finish will take place while the game is in progress. Spectators at the game will, therefore, see the beginning and finish of the race, as well as the ball game.

Chifeds Reach Camp

SHREVEPORT, La., March 8.—Manager Tinker and twenty-three Chicago Federal league players arrived here last night for spring practice. The Newark Federal league team also arrived last night en route to Marshall, Tex.

SCATTERED PROFIT TAKING CAUSED BREAK IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 1 to 3 Points Lower Than Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 8.—Cotton opened steady today at unchanged prices to a decline of 4 points under some scattered realizing and a little selling which may have been encouraged by relatively easy cables. Offerings were limited, however, and prices soon steadied on a renewal of Wall street and western investment buying with active months selling back to about or a shade over Saturday's closing figures. Some reports from the southwest claim there will be a reduction of not more than 10 per cent in the Texas cotton acreage, but practically all advices received this morning indicate firmness in the southern spot situation, and there was a continued absence of southern hedge selling around the local ring. Private cables reported that Liverpool showed a good undertone in spite of heavy realizing.

After selling about 2 to 4 points net higher, the market turned a shade easier under realizing and scattered southern offerings with prices some 3 to 4 points net lower shortly after midday. Marine insurance people report that an agreement has been reached with the British government with reference to shipments of cotton to neutral countries, contracts for which had been placed before March 2.

After selling off to a net loss of about 7 to 8 points during the early afternoon the market steadied on scattered covering and rallied to within 3 or 4 points of Saturday's close.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—Cotton was bought rather freely on the opening today and prices were put 4 points up but this small advance was met by offerings from both shorts and buyers of last week, and a decline of 5 to 9 points resulted, which put the trading months 1 to 5 points under Saturday's close.

The market was dull and rather easy throughout the morning session. At noon prices were at a net loss of 3 to 5 points.

Scattered liquidation came out in the afternoon and at 1:30 prices were at a net loss of 3 to 7 points.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—Liverpool gave no encouragement to the bullish tendency on our side, showing futures about 4 points lower than due and reporting apprehension over further labor troubles. Even mail service is crippled and New York says the only opportunity to send mail to Europe is by a steamer on the 13th and one on the 17th instant.

Strikes in English ports, congestion of freight and government requisition of steamers are held accountable for the situation.

In answer to an inquiry from our exchange as to whether the government could do anything to overcome the prohibitive insurance rate of 30 per cent going into effect tomorrow on cotton shipments by neutral vessels to neutral ports, Washington replied that it could not for the reason that the bureau war risk insurance is authorized to apply only to American vessels.

There was no rain of consequence in the belt over Sunday and partly cloudy to fair and cold weather is indicated to last for several days except in the western half of Texas where unsettled and warmer weather is likely.

Our market reflected bullish feeling and anticipations by a further advance in the early trading and rather a scarcity of sellers. Later, however, there was some hesitation and liquidation on a reconsideration of facts, the gravity of the political situation with Mexico again an added factor, a bad shipping situation and disappointment that news over Sunday does not in any way support the forecasts for early peace.

The official weight statement gives the average weight of bales for the belt at the close of February as 523,701 versus 521,093 last year. This is an increase during February of 49-100 of a pound against an increase last year of 12-100 a pound.

The local spot market is steady although business is restricted. Middling here is quoted at 8 cents, which is half a cent below Texas quotations and futures. This condition tends to sustain spot prices here. Offerings from the interior are somewhat more liberal since the advance in futures.

WHEAT HELD ON FARMS 152,903,000 BUSHELS

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Owing to the heavy export and high prices of wheat, extraordinary interest centered in today's department of agriculture monthly report announcing the amount of wheat of last year's record crop remaining on farms March 1. The department's crop reporting board, from reports of its correspondents and agents throughout the country, estimates the amount of wheat, corn, oats and barley on farms, with comparisons of preceding years, the proportion of each crop which will be shipped out of the counties where grown, and the percentage of the 1914 crop which was of merchantable quality, as follows:

Wheat—About 152,903,000 bushels, or 17.2 per cent of the 1914 crop remained on farms March 1, 1915, compared with 151,809,000 bushels, or 19.9 per cent of the 1913 crop remaining in 1914; 156,483,000 bushels, or 21.4 per cent of the 1912 crop remaining in 1913, and 122,025,000 bushels, or 19.6 per cent of the 1911 crop in 1912.

About 60.7 per cent of the 1914 crop will be shipped out of the counties where grown, against 53.9 per cent of the 1913 crop so shipped, and 61.6 per cent of the 1912 crop so shipped.

Corn: About 910,894,000 bushels, or 34.1 per cent of the 1914 crop remained on farms March 1, 1915, compared with 688,392,000 bushels, or 35.4 per cent of the 1913 crop in 1914, and 1,289,655000 bushels, or 41.3 per cent, of the 1912 crop in 1913.

About 18.6 per cent of the 1914 crop will be shipped out of the counties where grown, against 17.2 per cent of the 1913 crop so shipped and 21.8 per cent of the 1912 crop so shipped.

The proportion of the 1914 crop of merchantable quality is about 84.5 per cent, compared with 80.1 per cent of the 1913 crop and 85.0 per cent of the 1912 crop.

Oats: About 379,369,000 bushels, or 33.2 per cent of the 1914 crop remained on farms March 1, 1915, compared with 419,476,000 bushels, or 37.4 per cent of the 1913 crop in 1914; and 604,216,000 bushels, or 42.6 per cent of the 1912 crop in 1913.

About 29.4 per cent of the 1914 crop will be shipped out of the counties where grown, against 26.5 per cent of the 1913 crop so shipped, and 30.9 per cent of the 1912 crop so shipped.

Barley—About 42,889,999 bushels, or 22 per cent of the 1914 crop, remained on farms March 1, 1915, compared with 44,126,000 bushels, or 24.8 per cent of the 1913 crop in 1914, and 62,283,000 bushels, or 27.6 per cent of the 1912 crop in 1913.

About 45.1 per cent of the 1914 crop will be shipped out of the counties where grown, against 48.4 per cent of the 1913 crop so shipped and 53.7 per cent of the 1912 crop so shipped.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET RESUMED UPWARD TREND

Canadian Pacific, New Haven, Missouri Pacific, Southern and Interboro Led

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 8.—Stocks manifested a stronger tone in today's early dealings, despite the lack of encouragement from London, where the international list again registered substantial declines. Leaders in the local market made fractional gains while New Haven, Interborough preferred and Maxwell Motors rose over a point, the advance in New Haven resulting from its improved showing for January. Reports from various industrial centers indicated increased activity in the steel trade.

American Tobacco and California Petroleum preferred among the heavy issues.

Gains were increased on a smaller volume of business in the early afternoon. Bonds of the Gould roads were prominent, in anticipation of definite developments at tomorrow's meeting of the Missouri Pacific stockholders.

Bonds were active.

Washington.—United States supreme court declares unconstitutional minimum passenger rate law of West Virginia.

Moderate profit taking kept the list within narrow limits in the later dealings.

The closing was strong.

STOCK MARKET OPINIONS

Journal of Commerce: Economic conditions are becoming the controlling ones in the conflict.

New York Commercial: Securities will rise with the sap in the trees this spring in the good old way if everybody acts with confidence.

Wall Street Journal: Quite an accumulation of stocks still appears to be in progress and the undertone of the general market seems to be good.

TELLS OF INABILITY TO INSURE COTTON CARGOES

Counsel for Schooner Owners Witness in Senate Ship Bill Inquiry

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Edward C. Plummer, of Bath, Maine, attorney for the Atlantic Carriers' association, operating coastwise schooners, told the senate ship bill inquiry committee today that when those carriers sought to enter the trans-atlantic cotton trade, Maine insurance companies would not insure their cargoes, and eventually they could get only a $200,000 limit of insurance on any one cargo.

Secretary Redfield, he said, had sought information on sailing schooners for the cotton trade from the American bureau of shipping in New York and had been informed such vessels were not available.

Mr. Plummer also told the committee that the interests he represented opposed the ship purchase bill because they feared the government might eventually sell ships to operators in the coastwise trade injure their business. He had furnished information to Senator Weeks and also discussed the bill with Senator Townsend and Representatives Moore, Humphrey and McGillicuddy.

Weather Conditions

Forecast till 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Atlanta and vicinity: Fair tonight and Tuesday.

Georgia: Fair tonight, temperature close to freezing in interior, probably heavy frost near the coast; Tuesday fair.

Alabama: Fair, continued cold tonight, heavy frost if weather clears; Tuesday partly cloudy.

The northern storm took a rather unusual course southeastward and is central this morning off Hatteras, with the atmospheric pressure below 29.7 inches. At the same time an area of high atmospheric pressure developed in the northwest with a cold wave and temperatures slightly below zero in the northwest, Williston reporting 4 degrees below and Huron 2 degrees below this morning. Generally boisterous weather is reported over the entire country, with temperatures close to freezing as far south as Atlanta. Killing frosts were reported at Dallas and Palestine, Tex., and Shreveport, La., and heavy at Wilmington, N. C.

Precipitation in the past twenty-four hours occurred mostly in the states from North Carolina to New York, and in southwestern Texas. Very little rain or snow fell over the greater portion of the interior. A new disturbance over Arizona is causing threatening weather in Texas.

Conditions are favorable for fair weather Tuesday at Atlanta, with diminishing winds and temperatures near freezing. No spring weather is in sight as yet.

SENSATIONAL ADVANCE IN WHEAT PRICES AT CHICAGO

Wheat Closed 4 3-8 to 8 1-8 Cents Higher—Corn, Oats, Pork, Lard, Sides Strong

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 8.—Big cash sales since Saturday, firm cables and unfavorable weather in Argentina caused a decided advance today in wheat. The opening, 1c to 3 6-8c higher, was followed by material further upturns.

Large purchasing of flour by Greece later helped wheat, but it closed nervous, 4⅜ to 8¼ above Saturday night.

Corn rose with wheat. After opening ⅛@⅝c to ⅝c higher, the market continued to harden. Heavy stocks prevented any radical advance in corn. The close was unsettled at ⅜ to ⅝ to ¾ net gain.

Sympathy for other grain strengthened oats. Higher hog prices made provisions climb.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinion and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Logan & Bryan say: The fact that bearish influences have asserted themselves so frequently of late and failed to exert a depressing effect has encouraged buyers' position with the result that outside participation for the most part is on the constructive side of values. The floating supply of contracts due to lean offers on the part of southern farmers, therefore, makes the market more susceptible to moderate purchases.

In answer to an inquiry by the New Orleans exchange whether the government could do anything to overcome the prohibitive insurance rate of 30 per cent on cotton shipments to neutral ports, which rate enters in effect tomorrow, Washington replies that it cannot assist the exchange as the bureau war risk applies only to American vessels.

Walters and New Orleans houses buying cotton.

Map indicates fair and colder weather in the eastern states; generally cloudy in rest of the belt, becoming unsettled and warmer in west today.

Forecast:

Kentucky: Fair, somewhat colder tonight; Tuesday fair.

Virginia: Fair tonight with freezing temperature; Tuesday fair; moderate northwest to west winds.

Georgia: Fair tonight; temperature close to freezing in interior; probably heavy frost near the coast; Tuesday fair; moderate north winds.

Alabama: Fair, continued cold tonight; heavy frost if weather clears; Tuesday partly cloudy; moderate north winds.

Mississippi: Generally cloudy tonight and Tuesday; moderate north and northeast winds.

Louisiana: Tonight partly cloudy; freezing in the interior and if the weather clears frost will occur in southern portion; Tuesday partly cloudy; light northerly winds on the coast, warmer in western portion.

Oklahoma: Tonight fair; continued cold; Tuesday unsettled; warmer.

East Texas: Tonight and Tuesday generally cloudy; probably rain in western portion and on west coast tonight or Tuesday; freezing except on the immediate coast and the extreme west coast; warmer Tuesday; light northerly to easterly winds on the coast.

West Texas: Unsettled tonight and Tuesday, probably snow in northern and rain in southern portion; warmer tonight except in southeast portion; warmer Tuesday.

Map shows fair in Atlantics, cloudy in rest of belt. Killing frost nearly to coast. No rain except a little along Atlantic coast.

A dispatch from Galveston says the concentration sheds of K. T. Tideman, with 4,8000 bales of cotton, have been burned.

New York wires following: Agreement arrived at with British government regarding cotton shipments to neutral countries. All cotton contracts for and freight engagement that had been made before March 2, to be allowed free or bought at contract price if stopped provided ship sails before March 31. Similar treatment to be accorded all cotton to be insured before March 2, provided the cotton is put on board not later than March 16. All shipments claiming above protection, to be declared before sailing and documents produced to and certificates obtained from consular officers or other authority fixed by the government. Instructions are being cabled to British ambassador.

11 a. m., bids in New York were as follows: May, 8.78; July, 9.01; October, 9.27; January, 9.55.

New Orleans—Spots here quiet but prices steady. This would hardly be otherwise when middling here is quoted ½c under Texas prices and under futures. Interior offerings more freely since the rise in futures.

STOCK GOSSIP

Dow, Jones summary: Supreme court meets at noon. Government crop report at 2:15 p. m. Wheat crop for 1915 estimated at 900,000,000 bushels vs. 890,000,000 last year. Western railroad replace employes laid off last fall involving about 10,000 men. Net earnings of southern and western railroads during January, decreased about $8 per mile compared with year ago. Rumanian government has asked $40,000,000 for the army mobilization. United States sends war ships to east Mexican coast. United States purchase of Western Pacific urged. Railroads place 100,000 tons of rail and order many cars first week in March. Railroad leaders considering plans for a lower scale of wages for employes. Germany warns Greece; cabinet for peace.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Logan & Bryan say: Important declines in all grain values the past thirty days with a decided break in all markets the past week leads many conservative traders to feel that in a speculative way the adverse shipping conditions and the progress to date in the Dardanelles have been largely discounted. Cash wheat demand is acute and competing countries not able to relieve Europe without further large supplies from this side. Any definite news either way from the Dardanelles will turn wheat prices quickly but feeling at the moment rather friendly to the buying side of the grain list.

Country offerings of corn light and visible should show decrease today.

GRAIN MARKET OPINIONS

Ware & Leland: With the constant foreign demand and a growing scarcity of supplies, prices should advance to higher levels. Believe a considerable upturn in corn is likely.

Walter Fitch: If war is to continue any length of time look for higher prices.

Chapin & Co.: Believe wheat is in a healthy position.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co.: Wheat market acts sold out and there is no let up in export demand.

Lamson Bros. & Co.: Situation in wheat is strong. Corn nervous and easily influenced by strength in other grains.

Unusual Number of Six and Seven Per Cent Loans Now Being Made on Real Estate Will Lead to Building Increase and More Investment Later on--Good Volume of Transfers Recorded on Monday, Including Large Loans

No real estate or building developments came out Monday, about the most encouraging feature being the number of 6 and 7 per cent loans which are now going to record.

Most of the 6 per cent loans are either second mortgage, or are on vacant or outlying property. The insurance companies continue to be represented among the loan deeds.

This condition is bound to result in a building increase as well as in more general investment in real estate.

Whether the general feeling that the war will not last much longer has anything to justify it or not, it is making everybody feel better and is creating hopes of better business.

VOLUME OF TRANSFERS.

A good volume of transfers went to record on Monday, including warranty deeds to several important parcels the sale of which was made some time ago.

In the loan deeds were some large amounts made on semi-central and residence properties.

MR. MITCHELL OPPOSES DOUBLE SCHOOL SESSION

Urges That Children Be Given Plenty Outdoor Exercise

The regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the North avenue school last week was featured by an address by Mr. Eugene Mitchell, former president of the board of education.

Mr. Mitchell presented reasons for continuing with the present one session in the school contrary to a proposed change to a divided session.

Assuming that the entire time would be occupied with the regular text book studies, he averred that this charge would result in a diminished power of application with stupidity after a noonday meal and would compel a dull monotonous walk to and from home during the heat of the day. It would also result in shortening the time for outdoor play and in lessening the opportunity for individual observation of natural phenomena.

Mr. Mitchell was followed by Dr. Strickler, who discussed the same subject most interestingly from a medical viewpoint, urging the need of shortening the nervous strain under which the child labors while in school as much as possible. And in order that the child might have a proper unhurried breakfast would have the school hour advanced to 9 o'clock. Dr. Strickler also placed the need of a generous amount of outdoor life, according to the child's own dictates, as paramount, and thought that a divided session would not afford this.

FARMERS' UNION HOLDS BIG RALLY IN DOUGLAS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DOUGLAS, Ga., March 8.—The Farmers' union held a big rally in Douglas Saturday. The state president, J. J. Brown was present.

Since the state headquarters of the union has been moved to Douglas considerable interest has been manifested in the county union, and the membership has more than doubled, and as Coffee county is the seat of one of the district agricultural schools, the prospects during the fall are that agricultural interests in Coffee county will make considerable progress during the year.

GIRL SLAPS MATRON WHEN TAKEN FROM SWEETHEART

Threatens Suicide if Sweetheart Is Jailed--Both Fined

After spending the night at police barracks so as to be near her sweetheart who was locked in a cell pretty Miss Mollie Gottlieb, 246 East Fair street, rushed out of the women's ward Monday morning, ran to "Handsome Harry" Mandell, the sweetheart, threw her arms around his neck, and, when separated by Matron Bohnefield, slapped the matron' s with a resounding smack.

When brought before Recorder Johnson, Miss Gottlieb was fined $5.75 for slapping Mrs. Bohnefeld, and Harry Mandell was fined $10.75 for visiting Miss Gottlieb against the wishes of her family.

At the hearing, "Handsome Harry" said he had kissed Miss Gottlieb scores of times.

"Yes, and you'll kiss me again, dearest," she cried, her brown eyes shining, as she flung her arms around his neck and planted a lingering kiss full upon his lips.

"Here! Here!" cried Judge Johnson. "None of this—stop it, stop it, I say. This court is no place for loving—don't do that in here again."

$1.—John Hinton to Lovie Mathews No. 222 Clark street. March 6.

$5.—Miss Sara E. White to Ike Morris Lot east side Cooley's alley, 405 feet north of Houston street, 27x95. March 4.

THREATENS SUICIDE.

"If you send him to jail, judge, I'll commit suicide," Miss Gottlieb said. "I really will."

"I wouldn't want you to do that," answered Judge Johnson, "so he can pay a $10.75 fine and go, provided he promises not to go near your house again."

"Handsome Harry" paid his fine and went. The girl was kept for a little while with Mrs. Bohnefeld, and was then released after her $5.75 had been paid.

"Handsome Harry," as the girl calls Mandell, was carried early Monday morning with the rest of the men prisoners into the men's room in recorder's court to await trial before Judge Johnson. Miss Gottlieb, standing in the doorway of the adjoining women's room, saw "Handsome Harry" and ran to him.

"My love! My own true love!" she cried, putting her arms around his neck.

She went into the men's room, clinging to Mandell; she whispered sweet words of cheers into his ear, and said she would not leave him ever."

Bailiff George Cornet, observing Miss Gottlieb, told her to come out of the room. But she would not move from Mandell's side. Matron Bohnefield, who has charge of all women prisoners, was called. Mrs. Bohnefield carried Miss Gottlieb, protesting, from the room. As they reached the door, Miss Gittlieb, overcome with exasperation, drew back and swung for Mrs. Bohnefield's face. The blow landed squarely in the form of a sounding slap.

MATRON FILES CHARGES.

Mrs. Bohnefield made a case of disorderly conduct against Miss Gottlieb, against whom there were no other charges, and locked her up in a cell to herself.

With her brown eyes flashing, Miss Gottlieb stood in the cell and sang so loudly that the words and music passed through walls and doors and reached the ears of Mandell, cheering and comforting him.

Miss Gottlieb's first song was the "Miserere," from "Il Trovatore;" she didn't know the words, but she sang the air. This was followed by "Farewell, My Own," from "Pinafore;" after these appropriate selections, she sang anything that came into her head, just to keep her spirits up.

Mandell, a young electrician from New York City, was arrested Sunday afternoon at the request of Miss Gottlieb's relatives while calling on the young lady at 246 East Fair street. The girl, protesting that "Handsome Harry" had done nothing wrong, jumped into the police patrol and accompanied him to barracks. Here she said she would not leave him, and, at her urgent request, was locked up in the women's ward; Mandell was put in a cell at the foot of the steps leading up to the ward.

Endearing notes, scribbled on the back of envelopes, passed between the sweethearts; Miss Gottlieb said she was Harry's "until death do us part," and spurned an offer, made by her uncle, of handsome clothes and $50 and a trip to Florida if she would come home.

"A million dollars could not persuade me to leave Harry alone," she cried, when a messenger told her of this offer.

Her relatives claim that Harry Mandell is married.

BURGLAR COOKS MEAL IN HOUSE HE RANSACKED

Charles T. Mabry Finds Floor of Kitchen Littered After Thief Vacaten

It was a bold burglar, indeed, who some time Sunday night visited the residence of Charles T. Mabry, a railway mail clerk, at 134 LaFrance street. He was so bold that after ransacking the house he stopped in the kitchen long enough to light up the gas stove and cook himself a liberal repast.

Among other edibles the burglar made away with eight eggs, a large grapefruit, some oranges, a quart of buttermilk, and bread. The eggshells and fruit peelings he threw on the floor. He was considerate enough to cut off the gas, but left the top of the stove well littered with debris.

Entrance was gained to the Mabry home through the lattice door to the back porch. The burglar broke through this door, knocked out a pane of glass in the kitchen window, reached in and unlocked the window and climbed into the kitchen. He then unlocked the door leading from the kitchen to the back porch so that he would have an unrestricted exit.

Afterwards he went through the house visiting the room occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Mabry, from which he took a pair of trousers belonging to Mr. Mabry and Mrs. Mabry's clothing which was laid over a chair.

As it happened, Mr. Mabry had put away the trousers he had taken off Sunday evening and which contained his money. Those the burglar got were a pair he had laid out to put on Monday morning. The burglar carried these trousers away with him, but left Mrs. Mabry's clothes on the bac kporch.

Mrs. Laura Fricke, a sister of Mrs. Mabry, and her little boy occupied another bed room in the house. Her door was locked, and, although the burglar evidently tried hard to open it, he was unsuccessful.

It is believed that after rummaging through the house, the burglar went back into the kitchen, broke open a door leading into the pantry and prepared himself a meal.

Mr. Mabry is satisfied the burglar made his visit after 3 o'clock Monday morning, as he awaked at that hour and turned on his light to look at his watch. The doors to his room were not open then as they were when he arose later in the morning.

FRAUDULENT USE OF U. S. MAILS CHARGED

The federal grand jury returned an indictment Monday against Fred Downs, alias J. G. Browne, charging fraudulent use of the mails. Downs, it is alleged, telegraphed from Gainesville, Ga., to Mrs. Mollie Sorrels, of Russellsville, Miss., stating that he wanted $20. He is said to have signed the telegram Jesse Sorrels. Mrs. Sorrels sent the money by mail and when Downs called for the letter he was arrested. Downs is locked up in the Fulton county Tower.

Foster Indicted

An indictment charging assault was returned Monday morning against George Foster by the federal grand jury. Foster, it is alleged, fired upon and threw stones at Howard Jackson, a mail carrier, while the latter was in the pursuit of his duties. Foster is confined in the Tower.

Mrs. Luke Lea

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 8.—Senator Luke Lea received a telegram early this morning, announcing the serious illness of his wife at Asheville, N. C. She is reported to have contracted pneumonia. Senator Lea, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Warner, Mrs. Lea's parents, left at once for her bedside.

THAW MAY TAKE STAND IN TRIAL FOR CONSPIRACY

Matteawan Fugitive Eager to Testify at Hearing Opening in New York Today

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 8.—Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, may testify in his own defense at his trial for conspiracy in escaping from the Matteawan Hospital for Criminal Insane, which began today before Justice Alfred R. Page, in the supreme court.

Thaw, it is stated, is anxious to testify. After a conference of his counsel in which the question of allowing him to do so was discussed, Morgan J. O'Brien, one of the counsel was quoted as saying it was not at all improbable that he would be placed on the witness stand. This, however, is subject to revision in case developments of the state's case make it inadvisable to allow the prisoner to give evidence.

Thaw was smiling as he came into the court. He appeared to be in excellent health. His face was ruddy and stouter than when he was brought from New Hampshire.

The state's contentions were partly outlined by Assistant District Attorney O'Malley in questioning talesmen. His questions indicated that the prosecution would ask the court to instruct the jury that, notwithstanding Thaw's insanity, he might have a capacity to conspire.

Frank F. Bailey, a salesman, was accepted as the first juryman and became foreman.

Every effort, it is stated, will be made by Thaw's counsel to inject into the trial the issue of Thaw's sanity. Whether convicted or acquitted of the conspiracy charge, if Thaw is treated as a same person by the court, it was said, he hopes to be able to use that fact in a final effort to obtain a reversal of the order committing him to the asylum.

Fifty witnesses for the prosecution are here ready to testify. Mr. O'Brien, who recently returned from Concord and Manchester, N. H., with a long list of witnesses for Thaw, said that "hundreds of prominent men and women" are prepared to come to New York and testify for him if desired. Among them, it was said, the Sheriff Holman Drew, of Coos county, N. H., and Del Stevens, of Colebrook, N. H., a policeman who had charge of Thaw after his arrest.

The trial is expected to occupy not more than a week if Thaw's counsel are unable to obtain a test of his sanity at this time.

Five men to be tried with Thaw for taking part in the escape are Richard Butler, formerly a state assemblyman; Roger Thompson, driver of the automobile in which Thaw field; Michael O'Keefe, Eugene Duffy and Theodore Flood. Thaw's counsel wanted a separate trial for him, but were unable to obtain it.

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, the prisoner's mother, and some other members of his family are in New York to watch the progress of the trial.

Mrs. M. J. Bennett Dies

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CAMILLA, Ga., March 8.—Mrs. M. J. Bennett died at her home in this city this morning at 8 o'clock after an illness of several months. She was about seventy-five years old and is survived by the following children: T. R. Bennett, Miss Laura Bennett and Mrs. J. B. Lewis, of this city, and Mrs. A. P. Taylor, of Thomasville.

AUTOMOBILE TAX FUND IS SHORT FOR THIS YEAR

Three Thousand Fewer Machines Registered This Year Than Last Year

Despite the fact that the office force of the secretary of state is literally swamped with applications for registrations of automobiles and motorcycles three thousand fewer machines were registered up to Saturday night than were registered by the same date last year.

Secretary Cook made an investigation just before he closed his office Saturday afternoon and he found registration numbers had been issued for and mailed to fourteen thousand owners so far this year and he estimated that there was on hand about five hundred applications for numbers which came in Saturday and which had not been reached by the clerks. A like number of applications was received Monday.

The fourteen thousand registrations brought exactly $70,000 into the state treasury. Last year seventeen thousand machines had been registered by March 6 and the automobile fund in the state treasury amounted to $85,000.

Secretary Cook estimates that there are between 24,000 and 25,000 machines in Georgia. This would leave between 10,000 and 11,000 without 1915 numbers and therefore subject to prosecution in the courts.
